

BECAUSE LOVE IS UNREQUITED

SERIOUS CHARGES IN MANY LETTERS

Sensational Testimony Given in the Spreckels' Case by Editor of the Tribune.

When THE TRIBUNE went to press yesterday afternoon W. E. Dargie, president of THE TRIBUNE PUBLISHING COMPANY, was still giving his deposition in the suit of the First National Bank against THE TRIBUNE to recover $100,000 for alleged libel.

Mr. Dargie was called as a witness for the bank. He was represented by M. C. Chapman and George W. Reed. The bank was represented by Charles Wheeler and Nathan Lloyd. His testimony is as follows:

The Witness—I desire to add to my testimony in relation to the letters I received which had a bearing on the course of THE TRIBUNE. I didn't recollect all the letters this morning, but among others I received was one calling attention to the fact that Mr. Rudolph Spreckels and his father, Claus Spreckels, had called upon ex-Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz and sought from him a street railroad franchise in San Francisco, which ex-Mayor Schmitz declined to grant, and that this one meeting between Rudolph Spreckels and his father took place before the commencement of the so-called graft proceedings, in which Mr. Rudolph Spreckels has been a member.

Another letter called attention to the fact—

Mr. Lloyd (interrupting)—These are destroyed letters—

The Witness (continuing)—These are destroyed letters we received. We received another letter calling attention to the fact that Mr. Cope, president of the Bar Association of San Francisco, was saved from indictment through the influence of Mr. Rudolph Spreckels. Another letter called attention to the fact that Mr. George Duffey, president of the Board of Public Works, as I remember it, was actually indicted by the present grand jury, and that through the influence of Mr. Rudolph Spreckels this indictment was not returned to the court. Another letter recalled the fact that some years ago, this same Rudolph Spreckels brought suit against his father, accusing his father, Claus Spreckels, of robbing him of large sums of money, and his father accused this same Rudolph Spreckels of some serious charges which were then preferred against him. Another letter made the charge that Rudolph Spreckels hoped, as the result of this graft prosecution, to secure possession of the Gas Company of San Francisco to sell the Spring Valley Water Company to the city of San Francisco, and to acquire the United Railroads, and thereby he and his millionaire associates who were putting up for the graft prosecution would make from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 to be divided up among them.

Mr. Wheeler—Are you through, Mr. Dargie? A—That is all I recollect at this moment.

Q—One letter, which you say you received informed you that Rudolph Spreckels and his father had called upon Mayor Schmitz, seeking for a railway franchise? A—Yes, sir.

Q—Do you know whether or not Rudolph Spreckels and his father, or either of them, ever did call upon Mayor Schmitz and ask for a railway franchise of any kind?

Mr. Chapman—I would like to have the question read, to which Mr. Dargie's answer has just been given.

Mr. Lloyd—It is not given to any question now.

Mr. Wheeler—It is all volunteered, of course.

Mr. Chapman—He said he wanted to add to his statement made this forenoon.

THREATENS MURDER

11 TENTATIVE JURORS CHOSEN TO TRY FORD

Rapidity With Which Box Is Being Filled Causes General Surprise.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—Eleven jurors subject to peremptory challenge, have been secured to try T. L. Ford, general counsel of the United Railroads, who is now on trial for alleged bribery. The rapidity with which the jury box has been filled, has created much surprise in the ranks of both the defense and the prosecution.

A long drawn-out battle over the securing of the jury was confidently expected when the second trial of Ford was begun. Five jurors were passed this morning. The eleven jurors already secured are Henry H. Berg, cigar dealer, 1020 Fillmore street; John R. Jenkel, jeweler, 1314 Van Ness avenue; Arthur Brown Jr., architect, 2121 Lyon street; Martin F. Coggriff, merchant, 310 Sacramento street; Henry Leibel, wholesale produce, 1414 Davis street; William Lane, restaurant keeper, 115 Market street; Edward P. Martin, clerk in Wells Fargo bank, 2121 Lyon street; a retired hardware merchant, 428 Oak street; Russell H. Judson, furniture dealer, 2121 Lyon street; William J. Court, 517 Page street, paint and oil dealer; Leon A. Lazarus, jeweler, 2135 Lyon street.

UNCERTAIN AS TO RUEL.
From the trend of the questions asked by Henry, the impression has been created that Abe Ruef will not be called to the stand. On several occasions Henry stated that he intended to testify, but would render a verdict of guilty if Ruef was not called to the stand, even though it was promised that Ruef would testify. Rogers, however, considers this a blind on the part of the prosecution. He states that he intends to testify on the part of the assistant district attorney and an effort to entrap them.

The session of this morning was marked with a number of small disturbances. Rogers and Henry and on one occasion Henry practically appealed to the court, when Stanley Moore berated him about Ruef. Henry remarked that he was "damned when he granted immunity and damned when he did not grant it."

Judging from the speed with which the box has been filled it is thought the jury will be completed Monday. That at least six of the eleven men temporarily accepted will be peremptorily challenged, is the general impression.

The reason for the prosecution bringing Ford to trial on the indictment charging him with bribing Supervisor Jennings F. Phillips, in place of re-trying him on the indictment which charged him with the bribery of former Supervisor Thos. Long, on which the jury disagreed has not been stated by the prosecution. They merely announced that they prefer it to the last case and believe that it will be more easy to fight the case circumstantially, at least against Ford.

The courtroom was fairly well filled when the case was called to order this morning. Henry, O'Garra and Detective Burns, who sat at the prosecutor's table, were later joined by Henry's law partner, Cobb.

Carl Rogers, the two Moores, Louis F. Byington and Porter Ashe were present for Ford. Patrick Calhoun came in shortly before the morning adjournment was taken.

JURORS CALLED.
Promptly at 9:30 o'clock Judge Lawlor called court to order, and the names of the jurymen, passed, subject to peremptory challenge, were called. Juror Gillespie, who had been yesterday challenged, on the ground that he was not on the assessment roll, but whose examination was not finished when the court adjourned, was called and excused at once.

Jesse C. Greenfield, an employee of the United Cigar Company, was examined at length by Henry. Greenfield told Judge Lawlor that his salary would probably be stopped if he was compelled to serve as a juror.

He testified that he had an opinion in regard to the case.

"But you could set aside this opinion, could you not?" asked Henry.

"I object," said Rogers. "Whenever Mr. Henry desires to pass a juror, he asks, 'You can set aside this opinion,' and when he wants to excuse a juror, he asks, 'You couldn't set aside this opinion, could you?' I object on the ground that these are leading questions.

"How do you know I want to pass a juror?" asked Henry.

"I know; have been playing poker with you again." And a general laugh followed which brought forth a rebuke from the court.

HAD FIXED OPINION.
Henry challenged the juror, but he replied that he had a fixed opinion. Rogers denied the challenge and asked a few questions to determine how deeply rooted the opinion was. Greenfield maintained, however, that it would bias his verdict.

Frank L. Gust, a retired hardware merchant, was the next to receive the attention of the prosecutor.

"Have you ever heard any talk about this case?" asked Henry.

"No, sir."

"Have you any opinion in this case?"

MAD INFATUATION LEADS MARRIED MAN TO JAIL

Writes Feverish Letters to Pretty Girl and Threatens to Kill Her Aunt.

ALAMEDA, Oct. 18.—"I'm going to shoot her for trying to part us."

The brief sentence written by Gordon Rowe to Miss Thelma Jorgensen, a pretty stenographer in the employ of F. M. Smith, the capitalist, has resulted in the arrest of the man and the exposure of a courtship during which Rowe, a married man, had planned to have his engagement to Miss Jorgensen announced but which was prevented by the aunt of the girl, learning he already had a wife.

It is for making a threat to kill that Rowe, a young man of fine appearance, is today confined in the prison here, charged with having threatened to kill

Mrs. John Frommiller, the aunt of Miss Jorgensen.

IGNORANT OF MARRIAGE.

For three years Rowe and the pretty stenographer were inseparable, and ever after his marriage a year ago, acknowledged by him this morning but denied in a letter he addressed to Miss Jorgensen a week ago, he continued to keep company with the girl. For a year she never knew he was married and his protestations of love were accepted in good faith and it was planned to have the engagement announced.

During the time she has been employed as a stenographer at the Pacific Coast Borax Company's office in Oakland Miss Jorgensen has been living with her relatives.

EMPEROR IS WORSE AGAIN

Ruler of Austria Has a Relapse Again, Pass- ing a Bad Night.

VIENNA, Oct. 18.—Emperor Francis Joseph's condition this morning was somewhat worse, but he is in no imminent danger.

The Emperor passed a restless night, being frequently disturbed by bad attacks of dry coughing. The catarrhal symptoms are somewhat worse, the coughing more frequent, more violent, and there is not sufficient expectoration.

In addition the patient as a result of the bad night, was weaker today.

One favorable symptom is the absence of fever. The general condition of the Emperor, however, again requires the utmost care.

The attending physicians are worried by His Majesty's unwillingness to rest from his work. He sits for several hours daily at his desk, thus aggravating his trouble. He does not yet realize that he is ill, and says that "And old soldier must not notice a cold in the head."

In spite of this the Emperor has assented to the doctors' proposition not to receive in the near future any of his other relatives, who planned to come to see him.

REPORTS AN ATTEMPT TO KILL TAFT

Priest Declares Bomb Was to Be Hurlled at the Secretary.

MANILA, Oct. 18.—A report reached the local police yesterday from a priest that an attempt was made to throw a bomb at Secretary Taft while he was attending a reception in his honor, given at the Jesuit College. A careful investigation of the rumor has failed to disclose any foundation for the statement.

Every precaution was taken by the authorities to prevent any such outrage, the secretary being closely guarded by Insular as well as by United States secret service men. Besides, it is believed that there are no anarchists or men of that class in the islands.

HAS BUSY DAY.

MANILA, Oct. 18.—Secretary Taft was present this morning at an entertainment given in his honor at Fort William McKinley. In the afternoon he received the troops composing the garrison of Manila; later he was entertained at dinner by Brigadier General John J. Pershing, Commander of Fort William McKinley and this evening he will be present at a reception to be given by the American Club.

Early this morning, previous to taking part in the round of entertainment, the Secretary conferred with Governor General Smith, the members of the Philippine Commission and prominent officials of lower rank.

The Philippine assembly today completed the organizations of the various committees.

Mosquito Bites Cause
250,000 Deaths Yearly

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—"There are 250,000 deaths annually as the result of mosquito bites," said Dr. Edward A. Ayers, a member of the faculty of the New York Polytechnic, at a meeting in the New York Academy of Medicine. Dr. Ayers furnished astonishing figures in his lecture on "The Mosquito as a Sanitary Problem." He said five diseases are directly traceable to the bite of the insect. They are malaria, yellow fever, beri beri, dengue and filaria. The government is eliminating the mosquito danger by draining swamp lands, he said.

CAL. LIMITED GOES IN DITCH

Engineer Is Killed—Train Was Loaded With Tourists.

TRINIDAD, Colo., Oct. 8.—East bound passenger train No. 4, the Santa Fe "California Limited" on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, was wrecked at 5 o'clock this morning at Earl, a small station, twenty miles north of Trinidad, and the passengers were severely shaken up, though none was killed or fatally injured.

Engineer John Thomas, of Eaton, N. M., was crushed to death under the engine and Fireman Albert Boyington, of Trinidad, was fatally injured.

The injured:

Tommy Burns, prizefighter, Oakland, California, hip sprained. Burns' manager, Billy Neale, ankle sprained.

A. Coulard, retired merchant of San Francisco, injured about the hip by being thrown from a berth.

Mrs. C. W. Coberly, Kankakee, Ill., thrown violently from her berth; internal injuries.

Henry Smith, Tulare, Miss., thrown out of a berth and hurt about the back and ankles.

Nat Piper, Pueblo, Colo., thrown out of a berth, severe bruises.

James Monroe, Portland, Or., cut on the head.

Mrs. William Smithers, Seattle, Wash., a broken hip.

Miss Nancy Nolan, San Francisco, injured about the chest.

Mrs. Polly McFarland, Chico, Cal., serious injuries.

The train was a double header and Thomas and Boyington were in the forward locomotive.

Both locomotives and all the cars, a composite car, a diner and three sleepers, were derailed, only the rear sleeper remaining upright. A relief train was sent from Trinidad. The accident is attributed to bad ties.

The cause of the wreck is not known, but Assistant Manager Lautz doubts the story of a broken rail, as he says the track is newly laid with 45-pound rails on 12-inch rock ballast. Trains are being detoured by way of Pueblo.

ASKS COURT TO RELEASE MAGILLS

DECATUR, Ill., Oct. 18.—When today's session of the trial of Fred Magill and Fay Graham Magill, charged with having caused the death of Magill's first wife, was opened counsel for the defense asked that the court instruct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty. The counsel contended that the letters found after Mrs. Magill's death had been proved to be in her handwriting and that no testimony had been adduced to show that they were not.

Counsel argued that there was no proof to show that murder had been committed as charged against the defendants.

Judge Cochran refused to instruct the jury for acquittal and arguments on the testimony began before the jury.

PENPED UP IN VESSEL'S HOLD

Coal Heaver Is Nearly Killed During Ship's Fumigation.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 14.—Lost in the deep hold of the Mammoth Pacific Mail liner Manchuria, lying alongside the wharf at Second and King streets, and fearful lest his life be snuffed out by the quarantine doctors during the process of fumigation of the vessel, Peter Elycott, a coal heaver, engaged in stowing coal aboard the steamer, underwent a terrible experience this morning, while penned up in one of the Manchuria's narrow compartments.

Only after he had kept up a frantic hammering upon the steel partition, was his predicament made known. Even then a long and systematic search was required before his rescue was effected. Many of the compartments having been packed up by the federal quarantine authorities.

LANGDON IN CLOSE CORNER IS BEGGING FOR VOTES

District Attorney Is Between Two Fires and Cannot Proclaim Choice for Mayor.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—The Good Government League has determined a disturbing incident of domestic policy. For two weeks there has been a steady drain on the league's supply of Taylor buttons, those miniature photographs of the venerable lawyer-doctor that soldiers in the civic army of regeneration and reform are expected to wear in their coat lapels. Demands for buttons come from every source. A thousand here, two thousand there, five thousand from another band of faithful made the heart of Isidor Jacobs beat high. If the buttons that were sent out in bulk represented votes in particular Taylor would be elected by considerably more than the registered vote of San Francisco.

But the observing guardians of the Good Government League have been unable to see the Taylor buttons on any noticeable number of San Franciscans. The button habit appears to have lost some of its attraction. An inquiry was made and the interesting discovery followed that most of the buttons have been appropriated by the patriots who journey every afternoon to Oakland, San Rafael and down the peninsula to San Mateo and Palo Alto.

The eminent fitness of Dr. Taylor to be mayor of San Francisco is more deeply agitated on the trains and boats than it

President Roosevelt "KILLED A BEAR"

DOWN IN THE CANE BRAKES

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18.—News of the killing of a big black bear by President Roosevelt in the canebrakes, near Bear Lake, La., reached New Orleans this morning in a telegram to John M. Parker, one of the gentlemen who invited the President to hunt in this State and who himself was a member of the hunting party until business required his returning to New Orleans.

The telegram was signed by Leo Shields, another member of the party, and read as follows:

"President Roosevelt killed a great big bear. Went into thicket after him."

Two days ago several trails were struck but only once did the dogs come upon the bear, and then it became necessary for a negro hunter in the party to kill and way or another?"

"None what ver, was the reply.

"Well, have you any prejudice against the prosecution, for grand jury before you think you should be necessary?" Henry inquired.

"None at all," was the answer.

HENRY PASSES JUROR.

Henry inquired of the juror's willingness to convict on circumstantial evidence and also regarding the juror's affiliation with any secret organization. Receiving satisfactory answers, Henry passed the juror. Rogers began his examination of the juror by inquiring if he had ever served on a jury before. He stated that he had been jury service on many occasions. Asked what papers he had read, Gust replied that he had read the Bulletin to the extent and particularly the graft cases. This called forth a searching examination from Rogers, but the juror's answers were satisfactory.

"Now, Mr. Henry has asked you regarding immunity. Do you know that this immunity was not granted by the prosecution?" Rogers asked.

"No," was the answer.

"Do you know that this immunity was granted by this juror?" Rogers asked.

"No," was the answer.

"Do you know that this immunity was granted by this juror?" Rogers asked.

"No," was the answer.

WOULD BE FAIR.

"Have you seen reading about the immunity granted Mr. Ruef?" Rogers asked.

"Well, take it all in all Mr. Gust, do you think you could consider the evidence thoroughly and give an impartial hearing to both sides?" Rogers asked.

The juror thought a minute and then answered that he could. Gust is an old man and appeared to be conscientious in his answer. He was passed by Rogers.

Henry next called William J. Conrad, secretary of a paper handling company. Henry inquired if the juror would refuse to convict if the prosecution failed to put Ruef on the stand although there was strong circumstantial evidence against the defendant. His question was objected to by Stanley Moore for the defense.

Judge Lawler overruled the objection and Conrad answered that he would render his verdict according to the evidence. Henry passed the juror and while Earl Rogers was momentarily occupied elsewhere, Stanley Moore examined the witness.

RUEF AS A TOOL.

Stanley Moore charged the prosecution with using Ruef as their own juror. "You damn us if we give immunity, and you damn us if we don't," shouted Henry, glaring at the juror. "You are logically and coolly drawn attention to the fact that Ruef had been in the custody of the prosecution for many months and that Ruef had been in the custody of the prosecution for many months."

Moore sought to point out to the juror the fact that Ruef had been promised immunity but that other indictments against him had not been pushed. He asked if these facts would influence the verdict of the juror. These were all objected to by Henry, and the objection sustained. Moore finally passed Conrad and Russell if Judson was then called. He had at one time owned an industrial company here, what are your views on the subject?

"I don't want to argue on the service," said Moore. "I want to know your opinion in regard to the strike was an old union labor man like yourself would surely have been on the subject."

"Which side did you want to see win?" "Why, the union men."

Further questioning developed the fact that the juror was prejudiced against the United Railroads and he was challenged and excused. A recess was then taken.

O'GARA EXAMINES.

Daniel Einstein, a foul estate dealer, who was next called, stated that he had once met T. Ford, but that the acquaintance was slight. He had also met Abe Ruef in a business way on one or two occasions. O'Gara conducted the examination while Henry rested.

O'Gara inquired if the juror knew any of the officers of the United Railroads, but Einstein knew none of them. He stated, however, that he had a strong opinion on the case and that it would be very difficult to remove that opinion. Einstein's statement that he did not think he could give a fair and unbiased verdict led to his challenge by O'Gara. Rogers, who returned and resumed his examination of the juror, denied the challenge and inquired if the opinion was founded on newspaper reading alone. He sought to discover if it was not possible for the juror to try the case thoroughly and impartially. Einstein, however, insisted that he was prejudiced and the juror was excused. Three more jurors were then called and sworn. The examination of Joseph P. McCarthy, a journeyman carpenter, was next taken. He knew none of the attorneys for the defense, or Ford. Asked if he had an opinion in the case, he replied that he had such a strong opinion that he could not act fairly. He was promptly challenged for cause and excused.

HAD SLIGHT OPINION.

Edward P. Morton, a clerk of Wells Fargo, who was next called, stated that he had a slight opinion, but that it could be put aside by proper evidence.

"You understand that the defendant is presumed innocent until he is proved guilty," asked Henry.

"Yes,"

"And are you conscious of any feeling against the prosecution?"

"No."

"Have you any prejudice against deciding a case on circumstantial evidence?"

"No, not if it is conclusive."

"Would you refuse to convict if you were satisfied of the guilt of the defendant, but if the party received the bribe was granted immunity?"

"I don't think that would cut any figure."

After a few minor questions, he was turned over to the defense.

"Have you ever served as a juror before?" asked Rogers.

"Yes, before the fire."

"Do you understand that a juror who comes into the box, must listen to the evidence thoroughly and impartially? You understand, I presume, that the defendant is innocent until he is proved guilty?"

"Yes, I understand that."

NOTHING AGAINST MEMBERS.

"Have you any feeling against the United Railroads?"

"Well, I have felt disgust towards the service, but have nothing against the members of the corporation."

"Do you know any members of the so-called graft prosecution?"

"No."

"Do you know anything about the immunity granted by a private individual, the members of the corporation?"

"Only what I have read about it."

"Then would you take into consideration all this privately conducted prosecution and weigh it for what it is worth?"

"Yes."

"Take any interest in politics?"

"Well, not very much."

"Do you think you could give the defendant a fair trial?"

"Yes."

"Pass him," said Rogers.

CHALLENGED BY ROGERS.

Henry inquired of the juror's willingness to convict on circumstantial evidence and also regarding the juror's affiliation with any secret organization. Receiving satisfactory answers, Henry passed the juror. Rogers began his examination of the juror by inquiring if he had ever served on a jury before. He stated that he had been jury service on many occasions. Asked what papers he had read, Gust replied that he had read the Bulletin to the extent and particularly the graft cases. topic. "If it was shown that Abe Ruef was promised immunity and that he did not go on the stand would it affect your verdict?" asked Moore.

"I don't think it would," said the juror. MORE ARE SWORN.

He was then passed by Moore and five more jurors were called and sworn.

Peter P. Flood, a restaurant keeper, was the next juror called. He stated that he knew none of the attorneys for the defense. Although he had seen a number of the United Railroads officials and knew them by sight.

"Have you any opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant, Ford?" Henry asked.

"No, I have not," answered the witness.

"Have you any opinion as to the guilt or innocence of Calhoun?"

"None, whatever."

"Have you any opinion as to whether or not the Supervisors received bribes?"

"I have no opinion in the matter."

Flood stated that he felt sure that he could give a fair and impartial hearing. He stated that he knew Louis Byington but the acquaintance was slight.

"Any prejudice against deciding a case on circumstantial evidence?"

"Yes," answered Flood.

CHALLENGE FOR CAUSE.

Moore objected and Henry said: "We expect to convict on circumstantial evidence."

Turning to the witness, he asked: "Does your prejudice against circumstantial evidence extend so far that you could not give a verdict against the defendant on circumstantial evidence alone?"

"Yes," was the reply, and Henry challenged for cause.

Stanley Moore, who was conducting the examination of the jurors during Rogers' absence, denied the challenge.

He asked Flood if he did not understand that in law there was such a thing as circumstantial evidence, and illustrated his argument with a theoretical murder case, in which while the man was not caught red-handed, yet the guilt was evident. Flood still maintained that he could not convict on circumstantial evidence alone and he was excused.

John Bennis, a journeyman painter, believed himself impartial and replying to Henry's questions stated that if he was sworn as a juror, he would be impartial.

"Would you refuse to convict on the grounds that immunity was granted by the prosecution?" Henry inquired.

"I don't see how I could. If they were under oath I would consider their statement," answered the juror.

Henry passed the juror.

"You say that you are both a painter and a musician?" asked Stanley Moore.

"Yes, I am both."

"You formerly had a band of your own known as the Bennis band?"

"Yes."

WON'T DISCUSS STRIKE.

Moore then inquired regarding the recent strike in the building and his standing in the painters and musicians' unions. "Now, I have a recent industrial trouble here, what are your views on the subject?"

"I don't want to argue on the service," said Moore. "I want to know your opinion in regard to the strike was an old union labor man like yourself would surely have been on the subject."

"Which side did you want to see win?" "Why, the union men."

Further questioning developed the fact that the juror was prejudiced against the United Railroads and he was challenged and excused. A recess was then taken.

"Pass him," said Rogers.

CHALLENGED BY ROGERS.

Henry inquired of the juror's willingness to convict on circumstantial evidence and also regarding the juror's affiliation with any secret organization. ney, he admitted that he had followed the graft cases closely in the papers but had no opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant, Ford. Connel's evident love for San Francisco caused much merriment. He told how he had gone back East at the time of the fire but that he had returned and he would rather stand in the bread line in San Francisco than live in luxury in the East. Henry passed him.

After a few questions, Rogers challenged on the ground that Connel had left the city and had not been a legal resident long enough to qualify him. He was then excused and two more jurors were called.

Leon A. Lazarus, a jeweler, when called, testified that he had read much regarding the cases in the papers, but that he had no opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant. He also stated that he had no scruples about bringing in a verdict of guilty on circumstantial evidence and that he would credit the testimony of the former supervisors. He was passed by Henry.

JUROR IS PASSED.

Rogers examined the juror at length along practically the same lines and passed him.

Edmund Jones was the next juror examined. He stated that he knew Louis Byington, Ford's brother-in-law, but that this would not affect his weighing of the evidence. His next statement that he would not convict on circumstantial evidence brought forth a challenge from Henry. Rogers denied it and questioned the juror as to what he understood circumstantial evidence was. Jones, however, maintained that he would not convict on circumstantial evidence under any circumstances, and he was then excused.

J. H. Lehon, a mining broker, was then examined. He himself impartial and replying to Henry's questions stated that if he was sworn as a juror, he would be impartial.

"Would you refuse to convict on the grounds that immunity was granted by the prosecution?" Henry inquired.

"I don't see how I could. If they were under oath I would consider their statement," answered the juror.

Henry passed the juror.

"You say that you are both a painter and a musician?" asked Stanley Moore.

"Yes, I am both."

"You formerly had a band of your own known as the Bennis band?"

"Yes."

WON'T DISCUSS STRIKE.

Moore then inquired regarding the recent strike in the building and his standing in the painters and musicians' unions. "Now, I have a recent industrial trouble here, what are your views on the subject?"

"I don't want to argue on the service," said Moore. "I want to know your opinion in regard to the strike was an old union labor man like yourself would surely have been on the subject."

"Which side did you want to see win?" "Why, the union men."

Further questioning developed the fact that the juror was prejudiced against the United Railroads and he was challenged and excused. A recess was then taken.

O'GARA EXAMINES.

Daniel Einstein, a foul estate dealer, who was next called, stated that he had once met T. Ford, but that the acquaintance was slight. He had also met Abe Ruef in a business way on one or two occasions. O'Gara conducted the examination while Henry rested.

O'Gara inquired if the juror knew any of the officers of the United Railroads, but Einstein knew none of them. He stated, however, that he had a strong opinion on the case and that it would be very difficult to remove that opinion. Einstein's statement that he did not think he could give a fair and unbiased verdict led to his challenge by O'Gara. Rogers, who returned and resumed his examination of the juror, denied the challenge and inquired if the opinion was founded on newspaper reading alone. He sought to discover if it was not possible for the juror to try the case thoroughly and impartially. Einstein, however, insisted that he was prejudiced and the juror was excused. Three more jurors were then called and sworn. The examination of Joseph P. McCarthy, a journeyman carpenter, was next taken. He knew none of the attorneys for the defense, or Ford. Asked if he had an opinion in the case, he replied that he had such a strong opinion that he could not act fairly. He was promptly challenged for cause and excused.

HAD SLIGHT OPINION.

Edward P. Morton, a clerk of Wells Fargo, who was next called, stated that he had a slight opinion, but that it could be put aside by proper evidence.

"You understand that the defendant is presumed innocent until he is proved guilty," asked Henry.

"Yes,"

"And are you conscious of any feeling against the prosecution?"

"No."

"Have you any prejudice against deciding a case on circumstantial evidence?"

"No, not if it is conclusive."

"Would you refuse to convict if you were satisfied of the guilt of the defendant, but if the party received the bribe was granted immunity?"

"I don't think that would cut any figure."

After a few minor questions, he was turned over to the defense.

"Have you ever served as a juror before?" asked Rogers.

"Yes, before the fire."

"Do you understand that a juror who comes into the box, must listen to the evidence thoroughly and impartially? You understand, I presume, that the defendant is innocent until he is proved guilty?"

"Yes, I understand that."

NOTHING AGAINST MEMBERS.

"Have you any feeling against the United Railroads?"

"Well, I have felt disgust towards the service, but have nothing against the members of the corporation."

"Do you know any members of the so-called graft prosecution?"

"No."

"Do you know anything about the immunity granted by a private individual, the members of the corporation?"

"Only what I have read about it."

"Then would you take into consideration all this privately conducted prosecution and weigh it for what it is worth?"

"Yes."

"Take any interest in politics?"

"Well, not very much."

"Do you think you could give the defendant a fair trial?"

"Yes."

"Pass him," said Rogers.

CHALLENGED BY ROGERS.

Henry inquired of the juror's willingness to convict on circumstantial evidence and also regarding the juror's affiliation with any secret organization. Receiving satisfactory answers, Henry passed the juror. Rogers began his examination of the juror by inquiring if he had ever served on a jury before. He stated that he had been jury service on many occasions. Asked what papers he had read, Gust replied that he had read the Bulletin to the extent and particularly the graft cases. This called forth a searching examination from Rogers, but the juror's answers were satisfactory.

"Now, Mr. Henry has asked you regarding immunity. Do you know that this immunity was not granted by the prosecution?" Rogers asked.

"No," was the answer.

"Do you know that this immunity was granted by this juror?" Rogers asked.

"No," was the answer.

"Do you know that this immunity was granted by this juror?" Rogers asked.

"No," was the answer.

"Have you any prejudice against the prosecution, for grand jury before you think you should be necessary?" Henry inquired.

"None at all," was the answer.

HENRY PASSES JUROR.

UNION PACIFIC AT LOW RECORD

Stock of Harriman's Line Reaches Lowest Point for the Year.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Precipitate decline in the lowest price of the year in the stock market followed a meeting of the clearing house committee today, sentiment on the stock exchange being disturbed by rumors as to the proceedings of the committee. Statements were made by several of those who participated in the conference to the effect that except for possible changes in the personnel of the management of other banks than the Mercantile National, the situation was satisfactory. All of those present at the clearing house were of the opinion that the committee had shown that all of the New York City institutions were fully able to meet their obligations.

STOCKS FALL HEAVILY.

At first only minor stocks suffered sharply, but a little later the railroads, especially Union Pacific, Reading and St. Paul, fell away on heavy selling to the lowest prices of the year. In some instances the quotations for stocks were the lowest since 1903. The weakness in the market was exemplified in a sale of Guggenheim Exploration on the curb at 120. This is $50 a share lower than the last preceding sale.

There was heavy demand for call loans today which advanced to 10 to 15 percent shortly before 2 o'clock.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The influence of intermittent liquidation of copper stocks, which prevailed on the stock exchange today was resisted by the general list for a time, but was overcome when pressure developed against Union Pacific and Reading. A sharp break all around about noon carried down American Smelting 7 3/8 to 6 3/8. Amalgamated copper 3 3/8, National Lead 3 3/8 and Union Pacific 5 3/8. An account of 18,000 shares of United Copper was sold out on the curb during the early hours in six blocks of 3000 shares, each at $12 per share. Two thousand shares of preferred brought $25 per share. Rumors of a proposed reorganization of the clearing house committee were a disturbing factor.

WOOL MARKET.

The market became extremely weak just before noon and in a short time the decline became precipitate under heavy selling orders. Union Pacific sold down to 11 1/4, American Smelting to 6 3/8, Amalgamated Copper to 4 3/8 and St. Paul to 12 1/8. These are all new low records for the year.

For the day, the market was a loss of 1 1/2 points for the day. Reading lost 3 1/4.

At 1:55 p. m. Union Pacific sold at 11 1/4, a loss of 1 1/2 points for the day. Reading lost 3 1/4.

Another crash in prices carried Smelting down 9 3/8, the preferred 5 1/4, Union Pacific 4 3/8, Amalgamated Copper 4 3/8, Reading 4 1/8, Sugar 4, Southern Pacific 3 1/2, Atlantic Coast 3 1/2, Central and Missouri Pacific 2 1/2 to 2 3/4.

The market steadied abruptly shortly after 1 o'clock when conditions seemed to become panicky and sentiment was restored.

Each testimony furnishes further evidence to the people of Oakland that our delicious cod liver preparation, Vinol, does all we claim for it.

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run down persons, after sickness, and for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis, and all throat and lung troubles, Vinol is unequalled. This is because Vinol is made by a scientific, extractive and concentrating process from fresh cods' livers, combining with potentiation from all the medicinal, healing, body-building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil. WILL CELEBRATE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF WEDDING

MR. AND MRS. JOHN B. DIXON

Oakland Pioneer to Commemorate Marriage

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Dixon will be celebrated tonight at the family home, 1111 Twelfth avenue, East Oakland. The grandchildren, great-grandchildren and sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dixon will participate in the celebration, with fifty invited friends and near relatives of the well-known couple.

The Dixons are pioneers of Oakland, having been residents of this city for forty years. They remember when East Oakland was nothing but a barren waste of land, destitute of houses, when Oakland was in its infancy. Street cars were not thought of in the early days, they say, and railroad trains were the only conveyances in vogue in the city. The Dixon family established themselves in the city. They were among the first settlers here and have watched Oakland grow from year to year.

Mrs. John B. Dixon was born in North Guilford, in the county of York, and was married in the same place by the Rev. John Foster, a Methodist Episcopal minister. She was Miss Elizabeth Wiloughby, a charming Canadian girl, with many rare accomplishments.

John Dixon was a farmer's son and has worked at the carpenter's trade for many years. Mr. and Mrs. Dixon were married in 1857, and have since that time been happily married. They are not the Canadian custom, and would not be in conformity with their principles.

Among the invited guests are: Dr. Wilcox, Dr. Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Church, Mr. and Mrs. Gale, Mrs. and Mr. McCusalline, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. McNeally, Mr. and Mrs. McCowan, Mr. and Mrs. De Chiles.

The appropriation of $700 for the services of a mechanical engineer to examine methods and make plans for a plant for incineration and disposition of garbage, was recommended.

S.S.S. CURES BLOOD POISON

In no other disease is a thorough cleansing of the blood more necessary than in Contagious Blood Poison. The least particle of this insidious virus will multiply in the circulation and so thoroughly contaminate the blood that no part of the body will be exempt from the ravages of this powerful disease. Usually the first symptom is a little sore or ulcer, insignificant in itself, but soon the blood becomes so contaminated that the mouth and throat, nose, glands in the groin swell, hair and eye-brows come out, copper-colored spots appear on the body, and frequently sores and ulcers break out on the flesh to humiliate the sufferer. S. S. S. cures Contagious Blood Poison by purifying the circulation. It attacks the disease in the right way by going down into the circulation, neutralizing and forcing out every particle of the poison, and making this fluid pure, fresh and health-sustaining. The improvement commences as soon as the patient gets under the influence of S. S. S., and continues until every trace of the disease is removed from the blood, and the sufferer completely restored to health. Not one particle of the poison is left for future out-breaks after S. S. S. has purged and purified the blood. Book on the home treatment of this disease and any medical advice desired free.

SALOON CASE IS CONTINUED

Matter of Owens & Starr License Passed Up to the Council.

The petition asking for the revocation of the liquor license of the Starr restaurant on Twelfth street, between Washington and Clay streets, was referred to the Council without recommendation by the license committee last night after numerous arguments for and against the petition had been heard.

Sol Kahn, of Kahn Brothers, addressed the committee in support of the petition, which asks for the revocation of the liquor license on the ground that the restaurant proprietors have begun to construct a bar on their premises, while the license was granted with the understanding that it would be used for restaurant purposes only.

Kahn said that if the new bar is allowed to go into operation the tenancy will be to make Twelfth street a saloon street. He said that the petitioners have not changed in their opposition to allowing the license to continue.

FIRM WITHDRAWS.

Attorney Philip Walsh appeared before the committee to present arguments against revoking the license. He read a letter from Collins Brothers, who had been included in the first list of signers of the petition, in which they stated that they had been misinformed concerning the facts of the case when they had signed the petition and that they wished to withdraw. Walsh declared that Kahn Brothers are the owners of the building on the corner of Twelfth and Clay streets, occupied by the California Outfitting Company, in which they have a controlling interest, and other signers of the petition and he asserted that as tenants these signers had been influenced in the matter by the attitude of their landlords. He pointed to the fact that numerous business houses which are located close to the restaurant had refused to sign the petition, and laid emphasis on his statement that there has been absolutely no complaint about the manner in which Owens & Starr conduct their establishment.

CORRECTS STATEMENT.

Kahn replied briefly to Walsh's speech, correcting some of the statements he made, particularly in regard to the interest of Kahn Brothers in the California Outfitting Company, which he declared an entirely independent company.

The matter was then referred to the Council without the recommendation of the committee, the matter to be discussed by the Council as a committee of the whole.

After this discussion closed Chairman Ellsworth introduced a measure requiring applicants for liquor licenses to specify for what purposes the license is to be used, restaurant, hotel or saloon, and requiring that the place be used only for such purpose as originally designated, and deviation to be sufficient cause for revocation of the license.

Ellsworth said: "We are put in a delicate position in this case. We have no alternative but to take away the license altogether and that is a hard thing to do under the circumstances. This proposed amendment would undoubtedly prevent the occurrence of such a case again."

OBJECT TO OUTSIDERS USING SEWER

A long discussion was provoked in the meeting of the street committee of the City Council last night by the protest of citizens residing in Commerce street. It is held that people living just outside the city on Montgomery avenue are installing a sewer which they plan to connect with the Commerce street sewer. In view of the fact that these people are said to have voted against annexation to the city a short time ago, the feeling is strong, the city residents objecting to the outsiders connecting with the city sewer.

The city attorney and city engineer were requested to investigate the case and report at the next meeting. Petitions for sewers on Fifth street, between Market and Myrtle, Fourteenth street, between Chestnut and Adeline, and on East Nineteenth street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, were recommended. The opening and extension of Forty-first street from Market to West street, of Fremont street from Harrison to Alameda, of Twenty-eighth street from present terminus to Broadway, and of Dwinell street from its intersection with Edwards street to the Mosswood tract were all recommended.

SERIOUS CHARGES IN MANLY LETTERS

and I want to know what this question was, to which this is an answer. Mr. Reporter, read the question.

The reporter reads: You believed Mr. Sprickles' influence, if any, should be destroyed in the community in order that he might be checked in what you thus assume to be his career, did you not, Mr. Dargie?

STANDS FOR RIGHT OBJECTS TO WRONG.

A—I believed that Mr. Sprickles should be sustained in everything that was right, and should be checked in everything that was wrong, and in this connection I desire to call your attention to the fact that you on another occasion have charged that the course of THE TRIBUNE has been hostile to the prosecution, but I desire to state to you now that that statement is false, that the course of THE TRIBUNE has not been hostile at any time since the graft prosecution has been commenced, and that we are now, as we have been, in favor of prosecuting every criminal, whether rich or poor, and we have designated not only Louis Giam, Mr. Muldady, Mr. Calhoun and Mr. Ford, but all of them—we don't believe in making this a private prosecution, and letting Mr. Sprickles' friends turn Mr. Sprickles loose, or other people that he chooses to turn loose and prosecute others.

Mr. Chapman—In that sense only, you answered the question.

Mr. Wheeler—I would like to have the whole answer read.

The Reporter (continuing reading)—I desire to say now that I have no feeling except a friendly feeling toward Mr. Sprickles. I have had no connection with him direct or indirect, and the columns of THE TRIBUNE are open to him to do him justice in any case, and the fact that he is a multi-millionaire will not check me in the truth about him or anyone else connected with the graft prosecution. That's about all of his answer.

Mr. Chapman—What was the question which led up to the answer respecting the receipt of letters?

NEVER REACHED SUCH CONCLUSION.

Mr. Wheeler—I asked you a question at the morning session, Mr. Dargie, which the court directed you to answer, which question was "When did you, meaning you and your associates, determine that the course of the graft prosecution was bad?" Did you not understand that question as asking you to state a time, that is to say, a date? A—I never determined that the course of the graft prosecution was bad.

Q—You never reached such a determination.

Q—You have said that you heard through a letter that Mr. Sprickles had had secret meetings with Mr. Langdon. Do you know whether or not Mr. Sprickles ever had any secret meetings with Mr. Langdon. Do you know whether or not Mr. Sprickles ever had any secret meetings with Mr. Langdon?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as immaterial.

Mr. Wheeler—The witness spoke of it as a fact.

Mr. Chapman—No, he did not.

A—All I know about the subject of my own knowledge was contained through these letters.

Q—Who wrote to you a letter stating that Mr. Sprickles had had a secret meeting with Mr. Langdon? A—I don't know the name of the party. As I told you, we had a large number of those letters, and names were signed to them, but there were no names signed that I was familiar with.

Q—You said something about a letter stating the fact that Mr. Langdon had virtually promised to give Mr. Sprickles control of the district attorney's office. Do you know whether or not Mr. Langdon ever did virtually or otherwise promise to give Mr. Sprickles control of the district attorney's office?

A—Only through the contents of those letters which were sent to THE TRIBUNE.

LETTERS WERE ALL DESTROYED.

Q—Who wrote a letter to THE TRIBUNE saying that Mr. Langdon had virtually promised to give Mr. Sprickles control of the district attorney's office? A—I can't recall the name of that particular letter.

Q—In that letter, too, is destroyed, is it? A—All of those letters were destroyed.

Q—You say the letters set forth that Mr. Sprickles dictated what witnesses should and what should not be called before the grand jury in San Francisco?

A—That's what I did.

Q—Do you know whether or not Mr. Sprickles dictated what witnesses should and what should not be called before the grand jury in San Francisco?

A—That's what I did.

Q—On your own knowledge, and through these letters, was a name signed to any letter which made that statement concerning Mr. Sprickles?

A—I couldn't recall, because I didn't pay particular enough attention to the names.

Q—So far as you know of your own knowledge, did Mr. Sprickles ever dictate the name of a single witness who should or should not be called before the grand jury in San Francisco?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as immaterial.

A—Personally I have no knowledge on the subject.

Q—You have said that "in these letters" by that you mean in every letter that I have read.

A—Not every letter, but many of them. Some of the letters were abusive of Mr. Sprickles, and used very violent language.

Q—Let me ask you incidentally, have you ever received any letters commending Mr. Sprickles or his course?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as immaterial.

A—I have received some letters saying that he should make all he could out of this prosecution, that he was entitled to it, he needed the money.

Q—Have you received any letters which commended his course?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—You received any letters that contained no contemptible flings of that sort and did commend the course of Mr. Sprickles in the graft prosecution?

A—I think not.

Q—You have said that these letters set forth that Mr. Sprickles dictated what persons should be prosecuted and what persons should be allowed to go free.

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as immaterial.

Q—Have you any personal knowledge whatever upon the subject?

A—I have not.

BASED INFORMATION ON COMMON REPORT.

Q—You have stated that these letters set forth that Mr. Sprickles supplied a red automobile in which the grand jury rode. Have you any knowledge upon the subject whether or not Mr. Sprickles did supply an automobile in which the grand jury at any time ever rode?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as immaterial.

A—Only through those letters and through common report.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS

Continuing his examination of Mr. W. E. Dargie yesterday afternoon, during the course of the deposition being taken before Court Commissioner, Clarence Crowl, Attorney Wheeler, referring to the TRIBUNE article published by THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE criticising Rudolph Sprickles, asked:

Q—Did they say Mr. Sprickles desired to see either Mr. Ford or Mr. Muldady punished?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as immaterial.

A—I think not.

Q—Did these letters mention the name of any person whom it was said Mr. Sprickles desired to see punished?

A—No names were mentioned as far as I can remember.

Q—They merely stated he desired to see some persons punished?

A—They stated he desired to see some persons punished, and others set free.

Q—Was there anything in the context from which it could be determined what persons your informants said Sprickles desired to see punished and what to set free?

Except with reference to Mr. Cope and Mr. Duffey. Those are the only two that I remember.

Q—Who was the letter from that mentioned Mr. Cope's name?

A—I can't remember the name of the author.

SAVED BY SPRICKLES.

Q—What did the letter say?

A—I merely recited the fact that he was President of the Bar Association, and that he would have been indicted if Mr. Sprickles' influence had not been used to save him.

Q—You say it simply recited the fact that he was President of the Bar Association, and that he would have been indicted if Mr. Sprickles' influence had not been used to save him?

A—Yes, it simply made that statement.

Q—It made that statement?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—Do you know whether or not the statement was true?

A—Not of my own personal knowledge.

Q—Have you any information upon the subject other than the information contained in the letter?

A—I have more than street rumor that I have heard.

Q—Is that the case with regard to all of these different matters that you have testified to as being the contents of the letters?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as leading and suggestive, and calling for the opinion and conclusion of the witness, and immaterial. It is in the air, for that matter.

INDICTMENT NOT RETURNED.

Q—With reference to the communication referring to Mr. Duffey, what was that communication?

A—The substance of that, as I remember, was that Mr. Duffey had been indicted by the Grand Jury, but through the influence of Mr. Sprickles, the indictment had not been returned to court.

Q—Do you know whether or not Mr. Duffey had ever been indicted by the Grand Jury?

A—Not personally.

Q—Do you know whether or not, through the influence of Mr. Sprickles, an indictment of Mr. Duffey, if made, was not returned by the Grand Jury?

A—Only by general report.

Q—You have heard a general report that Rudolph Sprickles sued his father?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—Do you not know it to be the fact that Rudolph Sprickles never has brought a suit of any kind or character against his father?

A—I don't know it, and I would say this: That my recollection is that I have been told that you were the attorney in this suit against his father.

Mr. Wheeler—Since you volunteered to answer me with it, will you inform me that Rudolph Sprickles never has brought a suit against his father, and certainly never has brought a suit against his father through me.

Q—The various street rumors that you have heard and name of persons engaged, I suppose are based upon equally as good foundation.

Mr. Chapman—I don't know why that statement should be made here.

Mr. Wheeler—That is not for the record, but simply for the information of the witness. It is not a part of the record, and it may go out.

NO PERSONAL KNOWLEDGE.

Q—You have said that some of the letters said that his father brought suit against him in which he was even more seriously accused by his father. Do you know whether or not his father ever did bring suit against him?

A—Only through these letters and common report.

Q—Then, as far as you know, his father may never have brought any suit whatever against him?

A—I have no personal knowledge on the subject. I never saw the papers in the suit.

Q—You don't know that any suit was ever brought against him by his father in which any charges against him were made?

A—Only by common report.

Q—Have you not, since this suit, been printing or publishing in your paper statements to the effect that Rudolph Sprickles had brought a suit against his father?

Mr. Chapman—That is objected to as incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

A—Not to my knowledge.

Mr. Chapman—The further ground that the papers are the best evidence of the fact, and I move to strike out the answer because the witness answered while I was objecting. I wish you would be a little bit slow, Mr. Dargie.

TELLS OF REPORT.

Q—You have said these letters declared that Rudolph Sprickles hoped to secure possession of the Gas Company?

Mr. Chapman—That is objected to as immaterial.

A—Only through these letters and street report.

Q—You have said that some of these letters stated that Rudolph Sprickles was attempting to secure the Water Company of San Francisco. By that do you mean the Spring Valley Water Company, the same company that is mentioned in the article here charged as libelous?

A—That is the understanding which was the report in those letters and on the street.

Q—You had heard such reports on the street yourself?

A—Yes, I believed them to be true?

Q—You had no reason to disbelieve them?

Q—Whether they were true or not, you don't know, do you?

HAD NO STOCK.

A—I don't know it. It didn't concern me. I had no interest in it. I had no stock in the Spring Valley, and it wouldn't make any break.

Q—You have said that some of these letters stated that he was endeavoring to get the Spring Valley.

A—To have it sold to the city.

Q—Did you at any time make any investigation to find out whether or not Rudolph Sprickles was attempting to get the Spring Valley Water Company's property or the company, and sell it to the city?

A—I made no personal investigation.

Q—Did you at any time make any investigation for the purpose of finding out whether or not Mr. Sprickles was attempting to get the Spring Valley Water Company, or any water company, to San Francisco?

A—I made no personal investigation.

Q—Did you ever direct any to be made on either of these subjects about which I have just questioned you?

A—I never have.

Q—You heard the rumor and you believed the rumor and the letters?

A—I won't say I believed them or disbelieved them. I took them for what they were worth. There were stories in the air that might be true and I might be false.

Q—You did weigh them in determining the policy of THE TRIBUNE towards Mr. Sprickles?

A—Those were current rumors, and there were many of them, and we were not getting any letters taking the opposite view, and we believed that that was a straw showing public sentiment.

Q—Did you make any investigation for the purpose of finding out whether or not Mr. Sprickles had any designs on the Gas Company, or hoped to secure the Gas Company?

Mr. Chapman—That is objected to as immaterial.

A—I did not.

Q—Did you or your paper ever make any investigation into the charge made that Mr. Sprickles desired to see certain persons punished, and certain others go free?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as immaterial.

A—I did not.

Q—Did you believe that Mr. Sprickles was a bad man, in the sense in which you have used the term, was he?

The witness—Did you say that I had used the term that he was a bad man?

Mr. Chapman—Wait until he gets through, and we will object to it.

COVERED GREAT SCOPE.

Mr. Wheeler—Question withdrawn in that form. Mr. Dargie, you believed these various statements that were made to you in these letters concerning Mr. Sprickles to be true, did you not?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as immaterial.

A—I believed that there were so much smoke there must be some truth in these statements.

Q—And, therefore, believing them to be true, did you not?

(Interrupting.) Believing that there was some truth in them—I didn't believe they were entirely true, because they were too general and covered a great scope, and I was not sure of the truth of a very large number of offenses.

Q—With regard to these matters which you have testified to as having been specifically charged against him in these letters, which of them did you believe to be true?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as immaterial.

A—I believed that the charge that he was dictating the management of the Tribune, that he was dictating the letters that he was practicing undue prominence, that he was the practical dictator of the District Attorney's office, that he practically ran the office, was true.

Q—What other of the several charges which were made against him did you believe to be true?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as immaterial.

HEARD OF CHARGES.

A—I prefer to have you ask me the questions as you see fit, the direct questions.

Q—You spoke of some of those letters stating in substance that Mr. Sprickles was letting his friends go free and prosecuting others. Do you know whether or not Mr. Sprickles ever did permit any to go free while he prosecuted others?

A—Only through hearsay, not from my own personal knowledge.

Q—What was this hearsay?

A—I have never referred to with reference to Mr. Cope and Mr. Duffey.

Q—Did you investigate the charge to find out—did you or THE TRIBUNE attempt to find out whether or not Mr. Sprickles ever did permit any to go free while he prosecuted others?

A—There was a general discussion as far as we remember. The general policy of THE TRIBUNE is to publish the news every day, and from an inspection of the article you refer to, it was plain, it was on Sunday, and it was a news item, and was good news, and was no indication as to the policy of THE TRIBUNE.

We would give that space to an item of news at any time to any individual or corporation.

CANNOT FIX TIME.

Q—Can you fix the time when it was determined by you and your associates that there was something to be done or some criticism to be made of Mr. Sprickles and the graft prosecution?

A—I can't fix any time.

Q—When was it determined that their criticism was something to be done or some criticism to be made of Mr. Sprickles and the graft prosecution?

A—I don't know the date, whether it was before or after.

Q—When with reference to the 26th day of August, 1907?

A—I don't know the date.

Q—When did you first hear any rumor to the effect that the First National Bank was in any manner interested in the Spring Valley stock or bonds?

Mr. Chapman—That is objected to as assuming that he ever heard any such rumor.

Mr. Wheeler—Perhaps I understand the witness. When I ever did hear that the plaintiff in the case was interested in the Spring Valley bonds?

Mr. Chapman—Don't quarrel, boys, don't quarrel. You make me feel like Uncle Josh Whitcomb in the "Old Homestead."

ATTORNEYS WRANGLE.

Mr. Chapman. It is better for the witness to quarrel with the attorney against him than to quarrel with the attorney who calls him.

Mr. Wheeler—I don't know. I have had a great deal of trouble to me; but this is about the worst ever.

The witness. Whom are you referring to, Chapman or myself? Read the question.

(The Reporter reads question.)

Q—Not of my own knowledge.

Q—Have you any other knowledge than from the hearsay knowledge contained in the letters?

A—Nothing, except from general report.

Q—Believing the things you say you believe concerning Mr. Sprickles, you nevertheless say you have a friendly feeling toward him?

A—I have no unfriendly feeling towards Mr. Sprickles. As I said a while ago, the columns of THE TRIBUNE are open to him to give him exact justice now or at any other time.

Q—Under the circumstances, believing these things you have testified to, did they in any manner affect your feelings or friendships towards him?

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as cross-examination.

A—I have no unfriendly feeling for Mr. Sprickles. As I said a while ago, the columns of THE TRIBUNE are open to him to give him exact justice now or at any other time.

Mr. Chapman—Objected to as leading and suggestive.

Q—I asked for your knowledge.

A—I am asking for knowledge.

Q—I don't know of my own knowledge; only from street rumor and various conversations I have had with various people.

Mr. Wheeler. Q—When you discussed with your associates the graft prosecution, you meant to include Mr

Second Hague Conference.

The second Hague peace conference has concluded its deliberations. It has been in session four months, but during that long period its doings have attracted very little attention. Whether it has done anything that will be really conducive to the peace of the world remains for the future to demonstrate. According to the final act recorded in the minutes of the conference thirteen conventions have been agreed upon by a majority vote. These are thus stated:

- First—The peaceful regulation of international conflicts.
- Second—Providing for an international peace court.
- Third—Regulating the rights and duties of neutrals on land.
- Fourth—Regulating the rights and duties of neutrals at sea.
- Fifth—Covering the laying of submarine mines.
- Sixth—The bombardment of towns from the sea.
- Seventh—The matter of the collection of contractual debts.
- Eighth—The transformation of merchantmen into war ships.
- Ninth—The treatment of captured crews.
- Tenth—The inviolability of fishing boats.
- Eleventh—The inviolability of the postal service.
- Twelfth—The application of the Geneva convention and the Red Cross to sea warfare, and
- Thirteenth—The laws and customs regulating land warfare.

The exact nature of these conventions is uncertain until their text is made public. None of them are as yet binding upon any nation represented in the conference. They must first be signed by the plenipotentiaries resident at The Hague, and for that purpose they will remain open for their respective signatures until June 30, 1908. Each government represented in the conference will in turn instruct its minister what to do.

Generally considered, The Hague conference has not been taken seriously at any time during the session. The world had witnessed Russia plunging headlong into a costly and disastrous war shortly after the adjournment of the first peace conference which the Czar had taken the initiative in calling, thus indirectly giving the lie to the pacific intentions which he represented had prompted him to make the move. What the true friends of peace have desired to see is the dismemberment of the vast armies and navies which every civilized nation is compelled to organize and support in order to preserve its own integrity. This desire has not been gratified. It probably never will. The millennium is as far off apparently as ever. The question of disarmament was broached early in the peace conference just closed, but not one of the great powers was willing to take the initiative in the matter. The most important work done by the conference seems to have been to make war more respectable, if such a thing is possible; to confine the operations of war to actual combatants; to reduce the causes of war by the elimination of such matters as the collection of contractual debts from the list, and to submit to an international peace court such petty international grievances or violations of faith as are susceptible of adjustment without resort to arms.

Wealth in the Deserts.

The discovery of mineral oil on the border of the Mojave desert near Lancaster, Los Angeles county, will open a new field of apparently great magnitude, if productive wells are developed by later exploration. So far the evidences of a deposit of petroleum are confined to surface indications. It is just such surface indications that have, however, been the means of guiding the prospector in his search for profitable deposits in all of the oil fields that have been opened in the State.

The possibility of a new oil field in the Mojave desert calls attention to the great mineral wealth which these one-time considered worthless wastes really possess. Within a decade or so several productive mining camps located in the heart of these deserts have been contributing millions annually to the wealth of the State. Communities have been established in them where it was formerly considered impossible for human life to be supported. There is not a corresponding area of land on the Pacific Coast which is in reality so heavily mineralized or which possesses such a diversity of mineral wealth as these deserts do. They are constantly bringing forth new surprises, and inviting the investment of capital in their exploration for the mineral wealth which their barren rocks and parched sands conceal.

Heinze Caught in a Trap.

The failure of the corner which F. Augustus Heinze and his associates formed in United Copper in the New York stock market has swamped some of the banks with which Heinze was associated and caused a number of the large copper producing corporations in Montana to hedge their resources and reduce their dividends one-half. Apparently Heinze has been badly crippled personally by the sudden slump in United Copper stocks which he and his friends were holding up in order to force the shorts to the wall. It is a case of a bold operator being hoist by his own petard.

Heinze has been much in the public eye for nearly twenty years past as the boldest and one of the most successful mining operators at Butte, Montana. For a long series of years he was the central figure in litigation with the Standard Oil magnates and others involving the ownership of some of the largest copper properties in Butte. This costly litigation was a productive source of scandal. Legislatures were bought and sold through it. Courts were corrupted and at times Butte was converted into an armed camp by the contending forces. Despite the fact that his foes were the wealthiest men in the land, Heinze finally forced a compromise less than two years ago, and he emerged from the settlement the possessor of many millions. When the inside history of the United Copper deal is written it will probably develop that he has been crushed by some of the Amalgamated Copper crowd—his old enemies in the Montana fight—who have undoubtedly been waiting for an opportunity to get even.

CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR GIVE WIDELY DIFFERENT OPINIONS ON CIVIC SITUATION

ALLEGES TRAPS FOR UNION MEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—P. H. McCarthy, nominee for Mayor of the Union Labor party, addressed a crowd of mechanics at noon yesterday in front of the Union Iron Works on Twentieth street. W. R. Haggerty, former president of the Machinists' Union, was chairman. Frank McGowan, candidate for District Attorney, and other nominees spoke. McCarthy spoke in part as follows: "I am here today addressing you in the interest of all the people, and particularly the wage earners, the mechanics, and the plain people generally. At no time during the history of our city has a more determined effort been made by the opponents of organized labor than at present. Deceptive traps are being laid out for you, and you are being misled. No mind with particular attention to that of the union man, while planning his destruction through the disintegration of his organization. 'The few gentlemen who now ask for your votes are the same men who in 1891 told you during the great City Front Federation fight, involving, as it did, the teamsters' strike and lockout through the Employers' Association, 'go to work or be clubbed.' 'Mr. Speckles, Mr. Phelan, Mr. De Young and the unscrupulous Order are hand in glove with Mr. Calhoun in his work of destruction in connection with

ADVISES SAFE MIDDLE COURSE

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—Daniel A. Ryan spoke at Teatarts Hall, South San Francisco, last night, saying in part: "The issues before the people of San Francisco are plain, and upon their correct determination rests the future peace and prosperity of our city. The determination of the affairs of San Francisco, you might say, is purely a business proposition; as a man handles his business, so should the greater business of a municipality be handled. 'It is the cry at the present day of P. H. McCarthy that the election of Dr. Taylor means industrial strife, and of the friends of Dr. Taylor that the election of P. H. McCarthy means industrial strife. Whether this be true or false we cannot at present foresee, but we must not experiment with the future of the union movement of our city. While they engaged they come forward and ask the very men they are endeavoring to destroy to vote for Dr. Taylor, their man for Mayor."

URGES SUPPORT OF HIS TICKET

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—Mayor Taylor talked to two audiences last night. At Wackerreud's Hall, on Bernal Heights, and at Delores Hall, on Sixteenth street, the Mayor said in part: "The only profit that this government of ours allows is a legitimate profit. The only investment capital is allowed to make is a legitimate investment. If a man will gamble or smuggle or bribe he must go to jail when he is found out. Your rich and fashionable briber, lurking behind the refinement of his national mansion, is no better in the eyes of the law than the poor and miserable smuggler who lurks in the woods on the national border line trying to make a profit through escaping the vigilant eye of government. 'Take the motto of the Good Government League and the Democratic party in this campaign to heart and put partition below citizenship. Support this ticket, not because I am on it, but because it stands for what is best. I took office three months ago. Within ten days we had a board of supervisors which I believe is the best the city has ever had. For months have devoted my time to the city's business than to their own affairs. They have straightened out the tangles, and the city's affairs are now running as well as before the fire. Shall this government which has just got a start be continued?"

Neurasthenia

is the physician's name for a condition of weakness or exhaustion of the nervous system. The patient finds difficulty in keeping his mind on his work, is inclined to worry over trifles, is often depressed and irritable, is subject to headaches or a feeling of pressure on the head, is sleepless and sometimes the digestion is disturbed. A tendency to the disease may be inherited or it may result from almost any form of excess, from overwork and worry or the use of drugs or stimulants. The common name for this disorder is or, in extreme cases, nervous prostration. The treatment consists largely in rest, recreation and the use of a tonic, the discontinuance of any practice that may have caused it and abstinence from tea, coffee or other stimulants. As the nerves receive their nourishment through the blood the latter must be built up and made rich and pure. Especially if there is loss of weight and a pallor indicating weakness of the blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the tonic best adapted to effect a cure. They have been used by the most eminent physicians for the treatment of neurasthenia with most excellent results. The late Dr. Lepponi, who was physician to two popes, recommended them highly for neurasthenia and for similar disorders.

Home Treatment

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills being perfectly safe as a family medicine without the necessity of a separate prescription for each case, are sold in packages under the well-known trade mark which is our guarantee to the purchaser of the genuineness, purity and harmlessness of the contents. Hundreds of nervous men and women have cured themselves at home with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

A Thorough Cure

Mrs. E. O. Bradley, of 108 Parrells avenue, Rochester, N. Y., says: "I was weak, low-spirited and nervous. I could hardly walk and could not bear the least noise. My appetite was poor and I could not sleep well. I had severe headaches most of the time. I was treated by two doctors but got no relief and then decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I soon began to feel better and the improvement was general. My appetite became hearty and my sleep better. The headaches all left and a few more boxes entirely cured me. I would recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to any nervous sufferer."

DEBATE OVER BILLBOARDS

License Committee Unable to Decide on Proper Sort of Assessment.

The matter of the amendment to the bill-board license was discussed again before the City Council License Committee last night. T. H. Varney, of the firm of Varney & Green, appeared and stated his reasons for regarding a pro rata amendment as the proper form of taxation. Several of the other bill-board men tried to say, but Varney was chief spokesman. The proposed amendment calls for a license fee of $20 per quarter for all firms who do a business of $2000 or less and a sum of $100 per quarter for all whose business is over $2000. The discussion provoked was lively at times, but resulted in no action by the committee.

EVERHART SPEAKS

Some objection was made to the large amount of work which would be necessitated by such a plan, but Varney thought it would be a simple plan.

STEAMBOAT COMPANY WANTS WEBSTER DOCK

The Wharves and Water Front Committee of the City Council recommended last night that the Franklin street wharf, owned by J. P. Taylor, be replanked, at a cost of $400. It was also recommended that the California Transportation Co. be granted the use of the entire Webster street dock. The company intends to run boats regularly between Oakland and Sacramento.

W. C. T. U. OF PENNSYLVANIA

BEAVER, Pa., Oct. 18.—Closing session of the State convention of the W. C. T. U. this afternoon was marked by a long debate over amending the temperance pledge. Mrs. Bell Davis Smith, of Erie, offered a resolution to strike out the words "as a beverage."

The resolution was defeated by a large majority. The effect of the amendment would have been to prohibit the use of alcoholic stimulants as a medicine. The Rev. Anna Howard Shaw of Philadelphia, made a strong speech against amending the pledge. Mrs. Olive Pond-Amies of

Retains Alcohol as a Medicine but Continues Pledge Words "As a Beverage"

Philadelphia also spoke against the resolution.

In the election of the vice-president-at-large, the West won from the East. Mrs. Kate Rittenour, of Uniontown, defeated Miss H. Francis Jones of Philadelphia by a vote of 117 to 88. Miss Jones, who retired as corresponding secretary after twelve years' service, was presented with a bouquet of flowers and a gold chain and locket.

Mrs. Olive Pond-Amies, who retired after eighteen years of work as recording secretary, was presented with a gold watch set with pearls. The place for holding the next convention has not been decided.

My Oh My! But These Chorus Girls Are Angry

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Miss Margaret Anglin has stirred up a hornet's nest among the New York chorus girls owing to sentiments expressed by her in a signed interview published in an evening newspaper on Saturday. The girls of the Broadway Merry Merry are not the only ones who have taken umbrage at the actress' remarks, for the women in the vaudeville and burlesque ranks were included. Now they are making faces at her lithographs in the windows along the Great White Way and saying all sorts of mean things besides.

"I would advise no girl to attempt a stage career unless she has the rational gifts necessary to become a successful actress in companies of the highest standing," Miss Anglin is quoted as saying. "If she has not a natural talent, which will raise her above the level of the vaudeville or burlesque theater, or lift her from the ranks of the chorus in a musical comedy, she will lay herself open to the criticism—unjust though it may be—of the world, and will ruin what chances she may have of a successful career in other walks of life."

Miss Anglin said a great deal more than this that angered the girls who are not stars. Among the first to see it were Marlon Voss, Nellie Fallon, Dpt. Cloudband and Josie Mager of "The Hurdy Gurdy Girl," at Wallack's, across the street from the theater where Miss Anglin is playing. They passed the paper around among the girls' company and they couldn't get the press agent back on the stage quick enough to unburden their minds.

"Does Miss Anglin think every girl who aspires to stellar honors on the stage is going to jump into a leading part without going through the chorus?" asked May Boley. "And are the women on the vaudeville stage to infer that they cannot and do not represent in many instances a fine art? Miss Anglin evidently is trying to set herself up as the Mrs. Anthony Comstock of the stage. It would be a hard matter to find a single woman star today who has not had a hard, up-hill climb from the chorus, vaudeville or even burlesque to reach the top of the ladder."

"Many girls remain in the chorus just as those in other professions remain in humble capacities, because they haven't the ability to rise. But if a girl has talent, it will come out in the chorus as quickly as anywhere else."

Other actresses expressed themselves with equal vehemence yesterday, and it is expected Miss Anglin will have to do considerable explaining to regain the favor of her professional sisters.

SONGS OF AUTUMN.

To "The Hot" now quite effusively the jaded mrtals turn,
And ease their wearied lots by tempting lunch at Fassfern;
The Homestead Inn is crowded and each matron now begins
To lave in tepid water and wash out her summer sins.
Thence, with a cleanly conscience back to Gotham will they hie,
And plunge into the vortex, 'tis a cas eof do or die,
More social frays than ever on the tapis now appear,
And struggles for the entree fiercely evident this year.

The Crown Princess of Saxony desires it to be known,
She still retains her title, though the royal coop she's flown,
And that respect is due to her as unto a true Princess,
She doubtless will receive as much that's owing her, I guess.
Talk of your bland affinities! She ha sthem in a bunch,
And thinks no more of new ones than you think of eating lunch,
Toselli is the latest, Continental bets fly fast,
Regarding just how long this latest pick-me-up will last.

If Mrs. Greville really wished to come incognito,
And in among our humble selves a commoner to blow,
Strange that in brackets following the name she chose to bear,
We witness "Lady Warwick," promulgated everywhere.
No, radiant Countess, tell us not in language rife with ire,
To anonymity alone, while here you did aspire;
'Twere passing facile, had you wished, your title to conceal,
So prithee let us hear no more this ster nand outraged squal.

At length the charming widow whom we know as Hempstead's pride,
Will shortly for the second time become a winsome bride,
For Duncan came to woo and won, and chants the thankful hymn,

That on his prayerful courtship softly smiled sweet Mrs. Jim,
And e'en the old dame Kernochan appears to be quite pleased,
Her fears 'gainst Forster cpmlications now become appeased,
And Nimrod's tend her greetings glad, the huntsman blows
his horn,

While puppies yap with joy, their mistress is no more forlorn.
Poor Margaretta Drexel, with your name the papers play,
And match you to a lordling or a princelet every day,
To bring some relaxation from the latter's horde of duns,
Or place you in a convent 'mid a coterie of nuns.
No family of regal kin was ever such a wreck,
In matters of finance as is the princely house of Teck,
Thus if the latest rumor have a minimum of truth,
I pray thee ponder well o'er future misery, forsooth.
—The Saphhead.

SOCIETY GOSSIP

The most interesting of the social events set for this evening is the dance given by the F. L. Browns and Miss Katharine Brown in the new ballroom of the Claremont Country Club in compliment to Miss Alla Henshaw. Over one hundred cards are out for the dance, which promises to be one of the smartest affairs of the season. The favors are novel and pretty, and the other details of the ball are planned on most interesting lines. A supper at 11 o'clock is to be one of the features of the evening.

Miss Henshaw is very much to the front in social matters, her friends arranging as many delightful affairs as her engagement days will hold. There are plans for every day from now until the 1th of November, the day set for her marriage to Mr. Chickering.

FOR MADAME GADSKI.
Mrs. Oscar Luning entertained at luncheon for Madame Johanna Gadski yesterday, prior to the concert in the Greek Theater, at which the famous singer scored so great a success. Later the guests attended the Gadski concert as guests of Mrs. Luning. Included in the group were Madame Gadski, Mrs. I. L. Reques, Mrs. Charles Egbert, Miss Mollie Conners, Mrs. Meyer Riegmann, the Misses Riegmann and Miss Gadski.

DINNER AT CLUB.
Miss Jennie Stone is to be hostess at dinner, evening at the Country Club, the party being planned in honor of Miss Alla Henshaw and Mr. Chickering. Covers will be laid for sixteen guests, all of whom are bidden to the ball, given by the F. L. Browns in Miss Henshaw's honor.

KLONDIKE WHIST.
Miss Elsie Campbell entertained on Wednesday evening at a most delightful card party at her home on Webster street, the guests greatly enjoying Klondike whist.

Uncle Sam SENT THIS BRIDE A Chaperon

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—When the North German Lloyd liner Cassel arrived yesterday here on her way to Baltimore, Frank Truenback of Mexico City was at the pier to meet his sweetheart, Margaret Jacob of Hanover, Germany. Margaret was at the rail, all smiles and happiness, but her affianced had a lot of explaining to do before he could get aboard, and then there were the immigration boarding officers and rolls of red tape.

The inspectors said the couple must be married aboard the ship or on Ellis Island. They did not want to be married that way. The bridegroom-to-be had arranged for a wedding breakfast, after the ceremony, at the Union Square Hotel, and he had his clergyman already engaged.

It began to look so dubious that the happiness of the bride-to-be was changed into surprise and disappointment, while the bridegroom was equally depressed. Passengers sympathized with the weeping

Franklin Jacob, and the clouds continued to gather until Mrs. B. J. Mooney, an immigration matron, thought of the scheme of obtaining permission from Ellis Island to witness the ceremony.

The necessary permission was obtained and Mrs. Mooney, in behalf of Uncle Sam, chaperoned the bride, who dried her tears.

The Rev. George Werner celebrated the marriage rites at the hotel and the breakfast, at which Mrs. Mooney was a guest, followed.

The bride was born in Valparaiso, Chile, but eight years ago, when she was sixteen, removed from Chile to Hanover, where she fell in love with Truenback, who then lived there. They became engaged and five years ago Truenback went to Mexico City, where he took a position with an American firm. He prospered, and sent for his fiancée to meet him.

Mrs. Truenback is pretty and accomplished, speaking six languages, of which Spanish is one. They have started on their honeymoon, which will include every State in the Union before they reach Mexico City.

Benedictine Sisters Booming Nauvoo, Illinois—Old Mormon Town

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—The Globe-Democrat says:

Great things are coming to the old Mormon city of Nauvoo because of the energy of the Benedictine Sisters here. These sisters desire to build a new girls' academy and college to accommodate their growing scholastic influence in Nauvoo and this part of the State, and they sought financial aid among influential Catholics in the East. One drawback to the enterprise was the fact that Nauvoo was isolated from the other cities by lack of railroad connections. The city was organized by the Mormons before the time of many railroads, and at one time reached a population of 10,000. It was a large and prosperous city then, and covered many square acres of what is now fertile farming land, far, after the fall of Joseph Smith, the city rapidly faded away.

The capitalists to whom the sisters applied for funds investigated and saw this condition, and decided to advance any money on such an unpromising investment. But the sisters were not to be discouraged. They insisted that the matter could be remedied by the building of an interurban trolley line from Fort Madison across the Santa Fe bridge to Nauvoo. The capitalists then agreed that if the interurban was built they would not only furnish the money to put up the new educational building, but would take a financial interest in the proposed trolley line.

As a result of this arrangement the building for the girls' school and college is going up, and plans for the interurban are rapidly taking shape. The new school building will cost $500,000, and will accommodate from 300 to 400 students. The interurban line will erect a fine power plant, and install a 150,000 water system for the city. Not only this, but in connection with the Fort Madison-Nauvoo trolley line is now being projected a line from Nauvoo to Carthage, Mo., the seat of Hancock county, in which Nauvoo is located. This line will have a branch running to Hamilton, across the river to Keokuk, where it will connect with the present Keokuk, Hamilton and Warsaw trolley system, giving it entrance into Keokuk.

WOMENS' HOME LIFE IS RUINED BY THEIR CLUBS

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Herr von Brandt, formerly German minister to China, who married an American woman and who returned from a visit to the United States recently, contributes a remarkable article about American women to the current number of the Deutsche Revue.

He asserts that there is no single type of "the American woman," that the Gibson girl and the Harrison Fisher girl are only artistic myths. Self-consciousness and independence are the two leading characteristics of American women, von Brandt says, but these traits have been seriously endangered lately by the silly agitation of women's rights advocates.

AGAINST CO-EDUCATION.
The diplomat was particularly struck by the fact that very many more women than men are teachers in the American schools. This portends danger, he thinks, and he believes Americans will not tolerate it long. The system of educating boys and girls together he deems detrimental to the best interests and purpose of education, and he notes "with satisfaction" that a movement against co-education is active in several of the States.

Von Brandt condemns generally the whole system of educating girls in America.

"Apparently it is planned to give girls a good time rather than helpful training for their after career," the former minister writes. "It may produce 'typical American women' for the family and for society at large, but it must engender a disastrous desire for a free life."

LEADS TO RAGE SUICIDE.
The effect of the present system of educating girls is to cause the rising generation of American women to shrink from anything disagreeable. One evidence of this, von Brandt argues, is the prevalence of rage suicide in so many States, especially in New England, where the death rate exceeds the birth rate.

He adds, undiplomatically, that American women have little reason to be proud of the number of divorces in their country. In England there is one divorce to every 718 marriages on the average; in some American States one to twenty marriages.

Girl Has Dog Trained To Flush Her Father

WOMAN FOUGHT BY RODENT

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Jason Wormwood is not a woman who shrieks and jumps on a chair or faints at sight of a mouse. Mrs. Wormwood, single-handed, fought a combative rat to the death in her kitchen at North Caldwell, N. J., yesterday. That she killed the rat greatly rejoiced her, for in its nest she found pieces of a five-dollar bill she lost weeks ago. She thought it was stolen by a tramp to whom she gave a meal.

Mrs. Wormwood has not opened the lower oven of her kitchen range since last spring. She opened the door yesterday and was surprised to see a bunch of rats and paper in the oven. She seized the bundle and the rat, hidden in its nest, bit her hand severely. Of course Mrs. Wormwood emitted one shriek—she does not pretend to be Jean of Arc or a heroine of any kind. But instead of fainting or jumping on a table she grabbed a poker.

The angry rat jumped from the oven, and instead of trying to escape, it stood on its hind legs and looked at Mrs. Wormwood. She seized it again. The rat, seeing it was cornered, turned back and forth, and bold enough to snarl at her twice. At last she drove the rat in a corner and killed it. After all it was only trying to defend its young, for four very small rats were in its nest. It had gnawed its way through the kitchen floor and the concrete base of the range in its maternal effort to find a safe resting place.

Concerning Women

Thirty bathrooms are being constructed in the mansion which Mrs. Clarence Moore is building in Washington at a cost of $1,500,000. Her own bath will be in imitation of a cave, with stalactites hanging from the roof. The walls will be covered with shells, and the floor will be representations of Egyptian plants. The floor will be covered with a rug in the shape of a man. A woman who gets into a rut narrows her own life. You find plenty of them doing it, and one criticism of professional and artistic women is that they are interested in only their particular life, having little understanding or thought to give work done by others, says Edith Carruth.

This is no more true of these than of domestic women or those of leisure. A housekeeper is all too apt to have her thoughts revolving continually about things of the home to the exclusion of proper and helpful matters outside.

The art student occupies her mind entirely with palette and brush, and you can get her to talk only "colors" and "values," seeing her attention wander visibly when someone speaks of children. It goes like this all through the different phases of life, and an artist narrows her possibilities of good work, a stay-at-home woman lessens her own attractiveness, and a musician stunts her soul all because each thinks only of her particular line and fails to bring into it the good that she may get from various kinds of knowledge.

Neither music, poetry, painting, essays or any branch of art or literature is good and deep and strong in other words, at its best—until the artist or writer has learned something of life and knows real emotions, joys or sorrows to send out in the work.

The essence of her art should be woman.

Women's Work Should Not Limit Their Interests

To Flush Her Father

Magistrate, and a dozen bluecoats, waiting to appear against prisoners, the policeman, an important case she is working on.

It was before the arrival of the "Hello, Sadie," said one. "What luck?"

"The policeman who came to our house was nice," said the child, "but he couldn't find Papa. I guess mamma was too sick to tell the man the right place to look, and she didn't want to say that saloons were most likely places."

"So I started out with Curly to look for Papa. We would go up to a saloon and I would push Curly in the door, because I was afraid to go in."

"If Curly came right out, I knew Papa wasn't inside. We got 'way up on Third avenue and I was tired, when Curly began to run. I ran after him; I knew he was on the track. The street was crowded and Curly went too fast for me. A kid tripped me up, too. We found Papa at Union street and Third avenue. Curly went right through the swinging doors without me having to shove him."

"I wanted to be sure and find Papa because he'd have his week's pay, and we had nothing in the house to eat for Sunday. Papa wouldn't come home when I asked him, and I ran away. Curly just didn't know what to do. He almost cried, and went first to Papa, and then to me, but finally he came with me. He won't have any dinner today, maybe."

The child's father is a plumber, earning good wages, but he hasn't been supporting his family of late. If he doesn't behave, the police will be spread for him this week, under Sadie's direction. She has three younger brothers and a baby sister to provide for. The mother of the family recently left for the hospital after an operation. She is unable to work.

European Maidens Wise to Fact That Crop Has Commercial Value And Thus Decide to Keep Their Beauty for Themselves and Not Trade it Off for Shawls or Laces

Price of False Hair Soars, for Peasant Maids Refuse to Sell

With the price of false hair going up and the stern decree of fashion that every woman must have at least six little puffs of hair, other than her own, surrounding her collar, there is a sound of lamentation in all hair-dressing establishments.

"Why, it's preposterous," said a much-married blonde beauty, leaning over the showcase of a fashionable shop and toying with a bunch of fluffy false curls, "when dollars for these! A few months ago they were only worth six."

"Yes, madam," the saleswoman explained, "but the demand has increased and the supply has fallen off. Your hair is hard to match. It has tinges of red and drab in it, and both these shades are scarce now."

All the hair-dressers have the same complaint. My lady must have a "rag" of red, and my lady must have a "rag" of drab. The hair is so scarce that it is almost impossible to find a single hair of the right color and texture.

The price of false hair is so high that it is almost impossible to find a single hair of the right color and texture. The price of false hair is so high that it is almost impossible to find a single hair of the right color and texture.

countries, the opening up of small villages by the trolleys and trains have made the peasant woman more mindful of her looks.

Formerly she sold her hair for a sandy shawl or a bit of lace, and covered up her head with a bonnet. Now she knows the value of picturesque, and finds that it pays better to maintain her good looks.

In Sweden the government has passed a law forbidding the women to part with their hair for commercial purposes.

NO SUBSTITUTE.
"What are we to do?" asked the dealer, "There is no substitute for false hair that will wear well and there is no American supply. Why, we get the very best product of the old world. Paris keeps the 'seconds' for French women. During the summer Americans who went abroad took their hair with them."

"That may sound funny, but it's true. Hair is the rage now. French women talk of nothing else. They don't buy hats any more; they buy hair, and pile it on their heads in fantastic styles, puffs, bows and ringlets, making monumental head-pieces."

"American women knew this in the spring, and instead of going to Paris for their hair, as they do for their gowns, they secured it before they went abroad."

"The fact for extra hair is so extreme that women have it sewed into their hats like ribbon, and do it and don't it without any hesitation. It used to be that switches were worn only by old persons, or those with scanty tresses; now they are part of every woman's make-up."

"It is true that the convents sell the hair cut from novices' heads," the hair-dresser was asked.

"Yes, a great deal of the foreign hair comes from convents. There is a general agent in every district who collects it for the dealers. The nuns sell it and it brings good prices."

BRITANNY SENDS BEST.
"The best grade of hair comes from Brittany and the poorest from Japan. The coarse is used for rats and cheap switches."

"The lighter shades of hair are the most expensive. And the pale yellow much sought after and very rare, and drab, a shade of golden brown, is hard to get. Hair with red in it is healthy, and lasts longer than the paler colors, and many fashionable women affect this shade."

Gray hair, the dealer said, is very costly. She showed a three-ounce switch worth $150.

"No, women do not dye or blonde the hair any more. The natural shades are popular, and that adds to our perplexities. Everybody's hair differs in a greater or less degree, and there are as many different kinds of blondes that it is almost impossible to supply them all with curls, switches, pompadours and puffs to match their own tresses."

"And the worst of it all is that these 'crisped snaky, golden locks, the dower of a second hair,' retain their primitive loveliness for such a fleeting period! For three to six months is the average duration of a fluffy bunch of false curls, and yet women are paying fortunes for them."

HOFFMAN-WILLIS.
Miss Elisabeth Vincent Hoffman and Roy D. Willis were married yesterday at the residence of the Rev. Mr. Gale of the First Methodist Church. The wedding was a very quiet affair, being attended by only the relatives, among them the mother of the bride and her brother, B. C. Vincent.

The bride is a very handsome and accomplished young woman, who has a large circle of friends. The bridegroom has been in Oakland for only a short time, having come here from New York. He is now associated with the firm of Messers-Smith & Company.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Willis left on a wedding journey which will cover many points of interest in the southern part of the State. On their return they will occupy apartments which have been fitted up for them at the West corner of Fourteenth and West streets. They will be at home after the first of November.

BROWN-TOWER.
Tomorrow night Miss Alma Brown and Charles K. Tower are to be married at the home of the bride's parents on Alice street, and though the wedding will be a very quiet affair, only the relatives and close friends attending, it will be one of the prettiest of the present series of pretty weddings.

There are to be three matrons of honor, Mrs. Earl Stone, a sister of the bride, Mrs. Joseph Loran Pease and Mrs. Albert Brown. The bridesmaids chosen are Miss Hazel Pierce, Miss Mabel Pierce, Miss Gertrude Moller and Miss Corinne Tower.

The house is to be elaborately decorated for the wedding, and the gowns are all exceedingly lovely. So charming a bride party is not to be seen many times during a season, and it is no wonder that the wedding guests await tomorrow night with much anticipation.

AT CALIFORNIA COLLEGE.
On Tuesday afternoon a luncheon was tendered by Mrs. A. A. Macurda to a number of ladies who have been identified with the establishment and development of California College.

Those present were Mrs. Estelle H. Nagley, Mrs. William C. Spencer, Mrs. E. S. Gardner, Mrs. R. B. Sherman, Mrs. C. W. Brinistad, Mrs. J. H. Stevens, Mrs. G. W. Hight, Mrs. L. A. Johnson, Mrs. L. D. Inskip, Mrs. E. F. Joy, Mrs. J. P. Twyman, Mrs. J. L. Lyon, Mrs. F. C. Smith, Mrs. W. J. Cook, Mrs. C. E. Esterly, Mrs. E. G. Lindley, Mrs. Jay Pruden, Mrs. P. Mitchell, Mrs. O. Hiden.

The initiatory steps toward the organization of the Women's Auxiliary of California College were taken after the luncheon. The plan is to include all the women of the State who are interested in the work of the college. The auxiliary will be permanently organized at the Baptist State Convention, to be held in Petaluma, early in November.

For the present, Mrs. C. W. Brinistad will act as president, and Mrs. A. A. Macurda as secretary of the auxiliary. It is hoped that the organization will do much for the growth and progress of the college.

A HALLOWEEN BALL.
One of the most beautiful and elaborate receptions of the winter will be given by the southern ladies on the evening of October 21 at the Ebell clubhouses. The ladies in charge of this affair are famous for their entertainments.

The social world will long remember the reception given at the St. Francis Hotel, by these ladies, when the national convention of the Daughters of the Confederacy met in San Francisco two years ago. On that occasion more than a thousand guests were present, and the beautiful gowns and the exquisite decorations made it one of the most talked of affairs of the season.

The invitations for this Halloween ball on the 21st are unique, each card is hand-painted in the shape of a pumpkin, and the lettering on the inside in green ink reads:

"Ye ladies of ye Old South
Invite thee most cordially to their All Hallowe'en Ball at
Ye Ebell Club House,
Cor. 14th & Harrison Sts.,
Oakland."

Hundreds of invitations have been issued and all the maids and maidens are busily engaged ordering gowns. There is no doubt that the affair will represent all the richness and elegance of the Old South.

Owing to the fact that it is impossible to find the addresses of a great many members and friends of the Jefferson Davis Chapter, U. D. C., the ladies hope that those who have not received invitations will apply for such at the homes of the various patronesses: Mrs. Andrew M. Davis, Mrs. Julian Le Conte, Mrs. Frederick Augustus Berlin, Mrs. Fred Magee, Mrs. W. H. Cameron, Mrs. Charles F. Pond, Mrs. Beatrice Partridge Williams, Mrs. Dana Harmon, Mrs. W. H. Smyth.

FIVE HUNDRED.
Mrs. William Bassett presided as hostess over an informal gathering of friends on Thursday afternoon in celebration of her daughter's birthday.

A game of five hundred was greatly enjoyed by the guests, the prizes falling to Mrs. Annie Curtin and Miss Irene Fife. A dainty luncheon was served at the close of the game.

The guests were Mrs. B. Sturbeck, Mrs. Concordey, Mrs. Vallery, Mrs. Callison, Mrs. I. Johnson, Mrs. R. Midgley, Mrs. Galtin, Miss Rice, Miss Eleanor Bassett, Miss Edna Bassett and Master Wallace Bassett.

AT THE KEY ROUTE INN.
Mrs. Alexander Campbell has asked a number of friends to a luncheon at the Key Route Inn on Tuesday, given in compliment to Madame Sofia Neustadt, who has been a guest in Mrs. Campbell's home.

Madame Neustadt has been the central figure in a number of pleasant social affairs during her visit, and Mrs. Campbell's luncheon guests will include several friends who have presided at complimentary affairs in honor of the singer, whose charming personality has been a potent factor in her artistic success.

The group at the Tuesday luncheon will include Mrs. Charles Rodolph, Mrs. Albert Lee, Mrs. Frederic Turner, Mrs. Willis E. Reed, Miss Ada Eates, Miss Frances Stinson, Miss Ida Stinson, Mrs. Erwin Brinckhoff, Miss Bertha Bradley, Miss Mary Huddart, Mrs. B. F. Noyes, Mrs. Harry Carlton, Miss Augusta Breck, Mrs. Horatio Cogswell, Miss Blanche Powell, Mrs. Frederic Torrey, Mrs. Walter Nicholson, Miss Elsie Campbell, Madame Neustadt, the guest of honor, and Mrs. Alexander Cogswell, the hostess.

A RECEPTION.
The Philathene Club of East Oakland gave a large reception recently in honor of the Baracca Brotherhood, a men's club which is among the newest of local organizations.

After a musical program and some bright addresses, refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. Among those who helped to make the evening a success were Rev. E. S. Stucker, Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Holmes, Mrs. J. T. Reiner, Miss Ethel Carroll, Mrs. I. D. Wood, Mrs. Fred Weigh and Mrs. Rachel Fiedler.

AFTERNOON MUSICAL.
Miss Cora E. Jenkins, long a successful teacher of music in Oakland, is to give a very interesting musical at the new school, 120 Randolph avenue on Saturday afternoon.

The work of the students will be illustrated by pupils from the different classes, from the small players in the class of six years old to the more advanced students.

The new building seats two hundred in the auditorium, and the members of the faculty are planning a number of interesting affairs to be given during the term. The school has very fine equipment, modern in every respect.

Associated with Miss Jenkins in her work are Samuel Savannah, violinist; William Wotach, cellist, and Louis Neubauer, whose instrument is the flute. In the evenings of interpretation, set for October 22 and 29 and November 5, 12 and 20, Miss Jenkins will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fickenshu.

FOR A YOUNG VIOLINIST.

Mrs. E. I. Bartholomew, in charge of the program for the concert to be given at Ebell on the 25th by Miss Alice Davies, has planned a most delightful program for the evening. Miss Davies will play several numbers, and the others who are to contribute are Miss Bernice von Gelder, soprano; Mrs. Mabel Walker Murrell, contralto; Miss Hilma A. Buttler, reader; Miss Rena Burnham, pianist; El James Finney, tenor, and Lowell Redfield, baritone. Miss Mildred Turner is to be the accompanist of the evening.

The object of the concert is to assist Miss Davies, who is highly talented, to continue her musical studies. Many well-known women are working to make the affair a success. Among them Mrs. Cora E. Jones, Mrs. W. S. Palmer, Mrs. F. R. Charbonnet, Mrs. E. C. Cayser, Mrs. A. S. Carman, Mrs. George Faulkner, Mrs. G. J. D. Marley, Mrs. W. D. Smith, Mrs. W. M. Rieger, Mrs. Rufus Steele, Mrs. Howard Bray, Mrs. W. E. Pearce, Mrs. M. Lewis Woolley, Mrs. Camilla Brugiere, Mrs. N. J. Brown, Mrs. S. F. Mikel, Mrs. M. H. Morse, Mrs. W. A. Schrock, Mrs. Reginald Holmes, Mrs. F. L. Holland, Mrs. Fanny Duncan, Mrs. W. W. Tucker, Miss Violet Albright and Miss Lillian Swale.

HOME WEDDING.

On Wednesday evening a pretty marriage ceremony united Miss Mary E. Lancaster and John Thomas O'Hara. The wedding occurred at the home of the bride on Webster street, and was charmingly arranged.

The rooms were elaborately decorated with flowers and greens. In the reception room, where the ceremony was performed, the decorations were all of white blossoms. A great bell of white chrysanthemums hung in the center of the room, and strings of similar, leading from it, formed a bower for the bridal party. In the other rooms pink flowers were arranged, and some charming effects were given by the lavish use of potted palms and hanging baskets. A large centerpiece of pink and white carnations had the place of honor on the big round table at which the guests assembled to partake of an elaborate wedding supper.

The marriage service was read by the Rev. Father Cantwell of the Church of St. Francis de Sales.

The bride wore a charming gown of white satin, richly trimmed in antique lace. She wore a garland of orange blossoms in her hair and carried bride roses. Her bridesmaid, Miss Edith Lancaster, was daintily dressed in pink silk mull. Her bouquet was of roses, matching her gown in color.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, George O'Hara. The uncle of the bride, Joseph Lancaster, gave her away.

After the congratulations a supper was served to the guests. Only the relatives were present, the company including Mr. and Mrs. John O'Hara, of Ambrosi, Contra Costa County; Joseph Lancaster, Miss Edith Lancaster, Miss Lottie Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lancaster Jr., Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Ongerth, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McCall, Mr. O'Hara of Brentwood, and her son, Mr. O'Hara, Mr. and Mrs. Faley of Black Diamond, Mr. and Mrs. Griffin of Black Diamond and Master Lloyd Brown.

The newly-married pair left after the supper on a wedding trip. They will be at home after November first at 1622 Webster street.

WHITAKER-MARTINEZ.

Yesterday in San Francisco, Miss Elsie Whitaker, daughter of Herman Whitaker, the novelist, was married to Xavier Martinez, the artist.

The ceremony was performed by Judge Frank H. Dunne.

The young bride was only eighteen, celebrating her birthday only yesterday. Her engagement to Martinez was an announcement that brought forth much comment, as Martinez is many years older than his bride, and of a type that is far removed from that of the lovely young daughter of Whitaker.

Both are well known in Bohemian circles. Martinez came from Mexico some years ago, and rapidly won a place for himself among the local art colony. He has studied much abroad, and has achieved a wide success in his art.

Mr. and Mrs. Martinez are to spend their honeymoon at Carmel-by-the-Sea. In the spring they are to go to Paris.

FROM EUROPE.

Mrs. A. F. Page, who has been in Europe for several months, has returned to her home in Oakland. She has had a delightful trip, visiting all of the larger cities in the Old World.

GUESTS FROM NEW YORK.

Mrs. F. B. Washington of East Oakland is entertaining as a guest of her home Mrs. F. F. Kobbe Jr. and Mrs. F. W. Delehanty of New York.

BAKER-HENRY.

Miss Ida Baker will be a bride of the late November, her marriage with William Henry of San Francisco being announced for the evening of Wednesday, November 27. It will be a pretty home wedding at the residence of her sister, Mrs. O. V. Fortin in Waverly place. Mr. Henry and his bride will live in Berkeley, a home having been built for them there. Miss Baker is the daughter of the late Peter Baker, a pioneer of Oakland. Her fiancé is a business man of San Francisco.

CARD AFFAIR.

Mrs. Dudley Kinsell was hostess at a pleasant card affair yesterday afternoon. Her guests of honor were Mrs. Paul McMullan and Miss Mary Stalder, one of the season's brides-elect. A large number of ladies took part in the card game and remained to enjoy the social hour which followed. Mrs. Kinsell frequently entertains in this informal way, and always

JOAQUIN MILLER TO LECTURE TO STUDENTS

Joaquin Miller will deliver the first lecture in a series planned for this winter at California College, in the auditorium of Mary Stuart Hall, on Friday night.

The Shadow of a Man

45 per cent of the people you meet on the street are mere shadows of what they should be—they are too thin for their height. They lack in vitality—they are more open to attacks of disease—and they are not as attractive, and often less popular, than their heavier fellows. If you are too thin it is due to one or more of the following four reasons: 1. You cannot digest starch. 2. You cannot digest fats. 3. You do not assimilate what you eat. 4. You have a poor appetite. Peptol, the new food remedy, overcomes the difficulty in each case. It adds flesh at a remarkably rapid rate. This has been proven beyond doubt by eminent physicians, professional men and hundreds of others who have used it. It combines in highly condensed form the very elements that build flesh. It helps to digest other foods. It creates appetite. Peptol will increase your weight in 30 days. This we absolutely guarantee. If it does not we will refund your money without question. Ask your druggist for free booklet "Why People are Thin." Let it prove its worth. Start today using

GETTING JURY SEEMS EASY

Six Men Were Passed Yesterday, Subject to Peremptory Challenges Later.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—Six jurors were passed by both the prosecution and the defense yesterday, subject to peremptory challenge, to try the case of the alleged bribery of former Supervisor Jennings Phillips in connection with the overhead trolley franchise.

They are Harry H. Berg, cigar dealer, 1020 Fillmore street.

John R. Jenkel, jeweler, 1314 Van Ness avenue.

Arthur Brown, Jr., architect, 2121 Lyon street.

Martin F. Cosgriff, merchant, 310 Sacramento street.

Henry Liebert, wholesale produce merchant, 418 Dea street.

William Lane, restaurant keeper, 115-117 Market street.

The rapidity with which jurors were secured came as a surprise to both sides. Henry showed by his questions that different tactics to those employed in the last trial were to be used in this present case. The question as to whether or not the jurors would convict on circumstantial evidence was asked in each case, and it was also inquired in practically each case as to whether or not the failure of the prosecutors to put Abe Ruef on the stand would effect their minds. Masonry entered into the examination to a certain extent likewise.

Judge Lawrence testified that he had an opinion in the case and that his opinion could be not very easily removed. He was challenged by the defense.

Judge Lawrence questioned the juror at length and denied the challenge.

Rogers replied to the court that, while he did not doubt the honesty of the juror, he nevertheless doubted the ability of the juror to remove his opinion.

Replying to these arguments, Henry said that while the defense was entitled to a fair and impartial trial and impartial jurors, they were not entitled to have to read the newspapers and to be interested in the welfare of their city. Henry also stated that the legislature had passed on newspaper opinions in the mind of a juror and had decided that if such opinion could be removed by evidence the juror was competent to serve. The elder Moore contested this point, alleging that the juror could not, in his opinion, give the defendant a fair hearing.

LAWYER'S OPINION.
Judge Lawrence read an opinion on the subject which gave to the court the authority of excusing a juror whom he thought was not capable of giving a fair and impartial hearing. The court also stated that in his opinion the juror in question could be fair and impartial, and for that reason denied the challenge.

After further contest and objection by the defense the court allowed the juror to remain.

Shauler Scott, a hardware merchant, was next questioned. He admitted having formed an opinion regarding the case from reading the newspapers. That it would be impossible for him to set aside his opinion was the statement which brought forth a challenge from Henry, which the defense did not contest.

Louis Joseph, a retired clothing merchant, stated that he had a fixed opinion which could not be removed. He was challenged for cause.

Thomas Wilson, a contractor, who was next questioned, likewise stated that he had an opinion regarding the guilt or innocence of the defendant.

"How long have you entertained that opinion?" asked Judge Lawrence.

"Ever since Mr. Ford was tried before," was the reply.

He was then excused.

Charles M. Withington, a lime dealer, was next examined. He stated that he belonged to a secret order the same as Tires L. Ford, and as this fact might influence his verdict he was promptly challenged by Henry. A. A. Moore, for the defense, contested the challenge.

Withington stated that he likewise had a fixed opinion which he had gained from reading the newspapers.

He was excused.

LANE EXAMINED.
William H. Lane, when questioned, admitted having an opinion on the case, but he felt that he could set it aside. He stated, however, that he would not credit the statements of the immunity bathed Supervisors. He also stated that he thought that Ford was guilty, but that he could not credit any of the evidence of the hoodlums. He was challenged for cause and excused.

Samuel J. Eva was the next juror to be examined. Like the preceding witnesses, he stated that he would not believe the former supervisors under oath. He was challenged and excused.

With Eva's excuse the last of the twelve men sworn in the morning were examined and eight more jurors were called.

Henry Liebert was examined as he is as the eight witnesses were sworn. Replying to questions asked by Henry, Liebert stated that he had no opinion in the case.

He had had some business connections with the United Railroads, but did not think it would affect his verdict. Questioned regarding his belief in the immunity contracts, Liebert stated that he would act on the evidence solely.

"Would you be willing to convict on circumstantial evidence?" asked Henry.

"If the evidence was strong enough," replied the juror.

"Would you refuse to convict if the prosecution did not put Abe Ruef on the stand?" Henry asked.

This was objected to by the defense. When Henry had concluded Rogers took up the examination for the defense.

"Something was asked you about circumstantial evidence," said Rogers. "Do you understand that circumstantial evidence must be complete and absolutely convincing—you understand that?"

"Yes."

After a few minor questions Rogers passed the juror.

GLASS IMPARTIAL.
Samuel Glass was next called. He felt convinced that the supervisors were bribed, but regarding the guilt or innocence of the defendant he had not thought. He was satisfied that he could give a fair hearing. He stated that the opinion regarding the bribing of the supervisors was fixed in his mind. He was challenged for cause and excused.

The next juror questioned was William Lane, a restaurant keeper. He had no opinion on the case and felt that he could act impartially. He was also sure he could credit the testimony of the former supervisors, and was also sure that he could convict on circumstantial evidence if it was strong enough. He was asked if he was a member of any secret organization and he replied that he was. The district attorney then asked many questions as to whether or not this would influence his verdict, but Lane was sure it would not. Henry eventually passed the juror and Rogers began questioning Lane regarding his business and his stand during the car strike. Lane expressed an impartiality of feeling that resulted in Rogers passing him.

Henry next examined Frank J. Gillespie, who felt sure that he could give an impartial hearing without prejudice or bias. It developed that he was not on the assessment role and he was challenged and excused.

An adjournment was then taken until 2 o'clock this morning.

BREAK RECORD OF BALLOONS

U. S. Signal Corps Men Sail Longest Distance Yet Made in Gas Bag.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—It was announced at the Aero Club of St. Louis that Aeronauts McCoy and Chandler had won the Lahm cup for long distance flight having won the gas bag over Gallipoli, Ohio, beaten the record of 420 miles established by Lieutenant Lahm last year as the international contest record.

GERMANS ENTER RACE.
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—Aeronauts Oscar Erbelsch and Hans Heldemann who compose one of the German teams entered in the international cup race, ascended in the balloon Payche at 1:05 this afternoon for a trial flight.

ALL SAFE IN BALLOON.
INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 18.—The Hawley balloon which left St. Louis yesterday afternoon came down at London, Ind., sixteen miles southeast of this city this morning. All on board are well and there was no mishap. The balloon, Stevens No. 21, with a capacity of thirty-five thousand cubic feet of gas, ascended from St. Louis at 6:30 yesterday evening, carrying up Aeronaut Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post. Owing to a misunderstanding, the regular supply of light-balloon gas was shut off after the departure of the balloon in which Aeronauts McCoy and Chandler had ascended two hours previously and Hawley and Post were forced to use an inferior quality of gas for filling their balloon. That dampened their hopes for covering any considerable distance, but they decided to make the trial anyway. As they landed at London, Indiana, this morning, the distance covered is 350 miles on a straight line.

BALLOON SIGHTED.
HILLSBORO, O., Oct. 18.—A telephone message received in this city this morning reported a large gas balloon in sight passing over or near Leesburg, this county, in which two men were plainly discernible. The persons telephoning were after information as to the identity of the balloon, which is believed to be the United States Army balloon which was sent up at St. Louis yesterday afternoon.

THIS MILE HIGH.
JACKSON, O., Oct. 18.—A gas balloon, believed to be the United States Army balloon which left St. Louis at 4:10 yesterday afternoon passed over Jackson at 8 o'clock this morning. It was about a half mile high and going in a westerly direction. The basket appeared to contain several persons.

DROP MESSAGE.
CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—The following despatch was received here this morning by the Associated Press:

"LEESBURG, O.—This message is dropped from the Balloon Signal Corps at 6 o'clock a. m. October 18, over Hillsboro, traveling fast southeast."
"(Sig.) CHANDLER and MCCOY."
Hillsboro and Leesburg are in the same county in Ohio and the Chandler and McCoy balloon left St. Louis at 4:10 yesterday afternoon.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 18.—The message dropped from the United States Signal Corps balloon No. 10 by Aeronauts J. C. McCoy and Captain Charles de F. Chandler and telegraphed to the Associated Press at Chicago from Leesburg, O., by the finder shows that the balloon in thirteen hours and fifty minutes covered a distance measuring 350 miles on a straight line. The international record established by Lieutenant Lahm last year in Europe was 420 miles on a straight line, winning for him the James Gordon Bennett cup.

He at once offered a cup himself to the aeronaut beating his record. The message from Aeronauts McCoy and Chandler states that at the time of dropping the message they were traveling fast southeast. Therefore it is considered possible they may beat the record established by Lieutenant Lahm. The ascension was made here at four o'clock last evening merely as a long-distance test preliminary to the international aeronautic contests next week. The balloon holds 78,000 cubic feet of gas and the two aeronauts felt confident of being able to remain in the air all night.

Big Atlantic Liner Is Stuck on a Mud Bank

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—An unusual incident, due to a mud bank probably assembled by the shifting tides, prevented the passengers of the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland, just in from Europe, from landing last night. The steamer had approached within a few feet of her dock in Hoboken when she stuck in the mud, and efforts lasting three hours failed to warp the ship to the dock. More than 500 passengers were marooned for the night, while hundreds of persons who had assembled on the pier had to go away without the relatives and friends whom they had awaited.

DISCOVERS METHOD OF DISSOLVING GRAPHITE

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Announcement that he had successfully converted artificial graphite made from coal dust, into such a condition that it would pass through the finest filter paper, and that he had succeeded in dissolving graphite in water, was made by E. C. Acheson "The Wizard of Niagara Falls," at the opening session of the twelfth general meeting of the American Electro-Chemical Society in the Chemists' Club last evening.

Both of these discoveries will have a wide application in industry, it is said, and especially that of the solution of graphite in water, for it can be used successfully now as a lubricant where heretofore, when dissolved in oil, it has formed a sediment at the bottom, resulting in much waste. Graphite is much cheaper than oil.

ROYAL COURT GIVES COUNTY FAIR SOCIAL

Costumed in motley garments of all nations and climes, the members of the Royal Court, Oakland Assembly No. 25, with their friends, combined a county fair with a social reunion in Reed Hall, at Thirteenth and Harrison streets, last night. The evening was spent in a merry and rattling of wares, interspersed with dancing and musical selections. Some of the boys appearing in make-ups, as farmers, constables, cowboys, rubes, and other unique characters, made a decided hit with those of the gentler sex decked in attractive Japanese kimono. The whole affair, from a social standpoint, was a huge success. The committee in charge was composed of V. Tupper, J. E. Bourn, Charles Pritchard and A. S. Ormsby.

ITS POSITION EXPLAINED

Inspector Mitchell Makes Statement Concerning Wiring.

Electrical Inspector C. W. Mitchell of the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific came over from San Francisco today to THE TRIBUNE office and presented the following statement:

Regarding the increase of 25 per cent in rates of insurance on business property in Oakland which the merchants so thoroughly ventilated at their meeting Tuesday night, will say that it was made because of defective electrical wiring. In some instances this defective wiring is in the inside installations but in nearly all of the cases where rates have been increased it is to be found in the service connections of the company supplying the city.

When this company first started to change their overhead wiring in an underground system its attention was called by our inspectors to the manner in which they were making service connections to the various buildings. These connections were not made in accordance with requirements of National Electrical Code, which is in force in all large cities, and constituted a hazard which we could not overlook.

Through the personal appeals of our inspectors and by means of letters we exhausted every available means of having the hazard removed. Under date of August 30, letters were also written to our Police and Fire Departments, informing them of the conditions and quoting our requirements for such installations, but no reply was ever received to these communications.

Our only recourse then, since our efforts to have the work properly done were unavailing, was to take account of the hazard by increasing rates on the buildings in which it existed. Now, through the efforts of those affected by this increase, the Electric company has willingly signified its intention of remedying the defective installations, and just as soon as this is done we will gladly restore the rates to their former figures for in very few cases does the increased rate adequately cover the hazard.

The electrical hazard in Oakland is greatly increased by the high tension lines running through the city and trolley lines not protected against accidental contact with wires entering buildings. Both of these matters were brought to the attention of the companies concerned but without result.

Mr. F. J. Lea, while speaking at the meeting of the Merchants' Exchange, made the statement that the underwriters inspectors do not pass work which is satisfactorily passed by the city inspectors. This fact is doubtless due to the different sets of rules by which they are guided. Underwriters inspectors follow the rules and requirements set forth in what is known as the "National Electrical Code." This little book was not so many years ago, gotten up by the underwriters alone, but was compiled at a national conference in which thirteen different associations were represented, among them being the American Institute of Architects, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Institute of Mining Engineers, American Street and Interurban Railway Association, International Association of Municipal Electricians, National Electric Light Association, etc.

In cities of this size the code is usually adopted as the standard for all electrical work, but the Oakland city ordinance not only ignores the code altogether, but has some rules which are in direct contradiction. In order to avoid further differences of opinion between the inspectors it would be well to amend the present city ordinance by adopting the code.

JUDGE HAWLEY PASSES AWAY

Former United States District Judge of Nevada Dies in Hospital.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—Judge Thomas P. Hawley, who, prior to his retirement about two years ago, sat in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, died yesterday morning. The end came at St. Francis Hospital where he had been taken for treatment two weeks ago. He had not been in good health for some time, and came to this city from Carson City, Nev., in company with his son, Ernest Hawley, for a change of climate, but became gradually worse until it was necessary for him to go to the hospital where he died.

Hawley was 77 years old and was appointed United States District Judge at Carson City in 1890 and when the Circuit Court of Appeals was organized in 1891 he became one of the judges of that court.

GENERAL ALLY RE-CEIVED. Hawley was known everywhere as one of the most eminent judges in the country, and was loved and respected by all who knew him. During a session of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, yesterday morning the announcement of his death was made and the court adjourned out of respect for his memory. Remarks were made by United States Senator W. E. Borah of Idaho, Presiding Judge William B. Glisert and United States District Attorney Robert T. Davlin.

At the close of the session of the United States Circuit Court yesterday afternoon Judge Van Fleet also made announcement of Hawley's death in appropriate terms.

BORN IN INDIANA.

Thomas P. Hawley was born in Ripley county, Indiana, July 30, 1830, and removed to California in 1852. In 1855 he became deputy clerk of Nevada county, and was admitted to practice law in 1857. He was District Attorney of Nevada county in 1858. Removing to Nevada in 1859, he became city attorney of Treasure City holding that position for a number of years. He was elected Justice of the Supreme Court of Nevada in 1872 and was re-elected in 1878 and in 1880. In September, 1890, he resigned upon being appointed by President Harrison as United States District Judge for Nevada. He is survived by a son, Ernest Hawley of this city, and a daughter, Mrs. L. M. Trencher of Reno, Nev., Attorney General for the United States and not the state.

The great specials we make in this announcement prove conclusively, beyond a shadow of a doubt, that we under-sell every other merchant in the city.

MAD INFATUATION

Mr. and Mrs. John Frommiller, John Frommiller is the superintendent of the Smith Arbor in Oakland and it was with them she resided, though her parents reside in San Rafael.

The engagement was to have been announced at a party to be given at her father's home on Sunday, and with the ring in his possession Rowe traveled to the Marin county town. The announcement was never made. John Frommiller had investigated and found Rowe to be a married man, and on the day the engagement was announced Rowe was confronted by the evidence and was told to cease his attentions to the young woman.

WIFE WEEPS IN CELL.

This he promised to do but failed to keep his word and he is in the jail here. Through today he sat in the jail and twined with nervousness as he told his story. His wife, a pretty, dark haired woman, with large blue eyes, visited him this morning and wept as they conversed. He would have nothing to say to any of the prison attendants and refused to make a statement.

Though he declared that he would never more have anything to do with the pretty stenographer, Rowe's infatuation did not abate and on Monday of this week he wrote the letter that has brought him to prison doors. In the letter he declares that his love will never die and implores Miss Jorgensen to meet him at an Oakland restaurant. Despite the fact that the girl and her relatives knew he was married, Rowe wrote. Come to me, darling. I am not married and will prove it. Your aunt has done all this and she has no right to. I love you and it should not be that we part. If we part we must part as enemies. I am going to shoot her for trying to part us.

My golden haired angel why should you scorn me? Why should we part now?

DECLARES HIS DEVOTION.

Throughout the entire letter Rowe declares his devotion and love and asks that the girl forget what had transpired and meet him again. Miss Jorgensen received the letter Monday afternoon by special messenger, and instead of meeting Rowe at an Oakland restaurant, she wrote to John Frommiller. Then it was decided that Rowe must no longer attempt to correspond with or see the girl. John Frommiller and the girl's father came to this city and went to the ark on the estate, where they met him and with difficulty pacified the man. The conference ended in Rowe promising not to again attempt to see Miss Jorgensen. According to Rowe, the girl's father then promised that no action would be taken against him and he decided to leave the ark and see the golden haired stenographer.

Yesterday, however, John Frommiller appeared before Justice R. B. Tappan and swore to a complaint charging Rowe with threats to kill his wife. The complaint was based on the letter Rowe had written on Monday.

This morning as he started for work he was arrested and his arraignment set for 3 o'clock this afternoon.

SOBS AT HER HOME

On the cozy little ark Rowe has been occupying with his wife for the past three months. Mrs. Rowe was dejected and this morning she is a fine looking woman and her husband's trouble has caused her great worry. She will have nothing to do with him and when she was married to Rowe, who denied it in the letter sent Miss Jorgensen, she referred to the questioner to the man in jail. Between sobs the woman wanted to know if Rowe still claimed she was not his wife.

Hanging on the side of the parlor of the ark is the marriage license of the couple. They were married just a year ago in San Francisco at a time when Rowe was courting Miss Jorgensen and declaring that no other woman would ever be his wife.

It was a pathetic scene when the weeping wife this morning talked with her husband at the police station. His coming to the station could not check the flow of tears of the beautiful woman.

"I was infatuated with the simple statement of Rowe this morning."

CALLS IT INFATUATION.

"I was keeping company with Miss Jorgensen and as I told her in the letter I wrote, she was crazy. I suppose I did threaten to kill her aunt, but I thought the woman treated little Thelma unkindly and I could not stand it. I was simply infatuated with her and when she returned all my things to me and asked that I give back her pictures I almost drove me wild. I suppose I did tell her in the letter that I wasn't married but I don't know why. Yes we were to have become engaged but we have both acted foolishly and I don't know what to do now."

Rowe is an accountant with a San Francisco firm, a stylish dresser and a fine looking fellow of 34. Miss Jorgensen is about 25 years old, blonde, and also a young woman and is heartbroken through the duplicity of her husband.

The following is a copy of the letter Rowe sent to Miss Jorgensen:

Thelma, Thelma, Thelma—My Sweetheart:

Dear, dear, for God's sake what have you gone and done? Oh, my girl, what have you done? Why did you return my picture while I was away. What did auntie tell you while I was gone? Oh, Thelma, I'm not married. When I came to you I gave you my word of honor that I was not, and you still told me that you loved me. God, girl, what has happened to part us? Oh, sweetheart, come back to me. Dear, dear, Bluebell and I are not married nor will ever be. Oh, darling, have I not shown you for the past two and a half years how I loved you?

Dear, dear, do you not realize that this is sending us both to misery? Girl, come to me and be the happiest in the world. Oh, my golden haired angel, do not make us part now. Next Sunday I will go home to S. R. with you and explain to your folks the whole affair—what the trouble has been and we will both again be happy.

Darling, I have loved you since the day we met and I show you now. Come to me, dear, for God's sake, and make us both happy. Auntie did this, and I am going to shoot her for it. First I will talk with you. Yes, I will go and see uncle, but you come with me. I am crazy to think they tried to part us. Never, never can any one part us. Darling tonight (Monday) I will give you a ring, a token of our engagement, and when I get out of debt I will give you the stone.

"Dear, Bluebell was at the ark because I was in debt, as I told you openly, and people have helped me out."

Dear, we were not alone, no, no, no. Dear, listen to me, it has come to a crisis while I was gone and now I will show you; show them all my love for you. No one can ever part us. When I came home last night and found your letter, or rather your package and also auntie's letter, I was heartbroken. Oh, girl come to me. Would you for one moment hold the thought that after you had loved me for two and a half years? Would you think I would not have you? Never, never, never, my dear girl.

BEGS HER TO COME.

Sweetheart, be happy and come to me darling. I will explain all to you and we will be married and happy together. Oh, my love, figure what it means to both of us. It means our lives, nothing less, my girl. Come to me tonight and talk it over with me. I am reasonable and right, dear, and I know you will do the same. Ring up auntie and tell her you are going to take supper out. Tell her anything, so you can take supper with me. Meet me at Coney Island restaurant tonight after five. Go in and wait until I come at 5:30 or as soon after as possible. Oh, my girl, for God's sake do be there. I am not married and will prove same to you beyond any question. Any reports I will explain to you. It just makes me crazy to think of it. Sweetheart, sweetheart, I am sending this by special messenger to you so as to get there soon from the city. For God's sake say yes to make us both happy.

If you want to think it over tell the messenger to wait outside for an answer. Oh, God, girl come. I cannot live without you. Do, my girl, do, dear, think of what it means to both of us. Oh, my sweetheart, we both must—Oh, come to me only tonight sure. Life to me, dear, means none but you.

Mrs. Frommiller with whom Thelma Jorgensen is living at 1701 Ninth avenue said this morning:

I hated Rowe, the scamp. He threatened us that he would run off with Thelma, who is now up stairs in hysterics.

He has been going with Thelma for two years and it was only recently through the truth that he discovered that Rowe was a married man. He wanted to marry Thelma and said he would shoot us if he could not marry her.

Rowe has been persecuting us for the last two years and has been calling names every night. The whole affair will be thrashed out in court. There is nothing that we will conceal. We have been advised to prosecute Rowe.

ST. LOUIS.—In response to a telegram from Mrs. Mary Leusch of Lebanon, Pa. Police Sergeant Matthews and Officer McCormick today went to the Ponce Hotel to take charge of the body of her son, Harry Leusch, who was surprised to find Leusch merely asleep beside a bottle of whiskey.

They took him to the Four Courts and locked him up pending an explanation his mother having received a telegram signed by a Mrs. Cole, asking money to bury him.

"I needed the money," Leusch explained when he had partially sobered up. "I signed Mrs. Cole's name to make the message more plausible." Leusch

To Live on Peanuts And Wheat for 60 Days

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—To prove that the Aurora Board of Health is wrong in attributing a case of poisoning to peanuts, Thomas J. Allen, president of the Aurora College of Aurora, will today begin to live on a diet of peanuts for sixty days. In order not to do too much violence to his system he will mix the ground peanuts with the nut part of wheat. In the portions of two-thirds peanuts and one-third wheat.

Allen has been a vegetarian and an experimenter in special food for several years. Beginning today he will undergo a daily examination at the hands of Dr. C. W. Guyer, president of the Aurora Board of Health, who will weigh Allen each day, test his heart action and keep a record of his physical condition from day to day.

An Aurora man recently became ill after eating peanut candy and the Aurora Board of Health has not yet determined that there is danger in the peanut. The asperation cast upon his favorite food roused the ire of Allen and he called up Dr. Guyer and made his offer of a sixty-day experiment.

Allen has laid in a large supply of peanuts and will take his ground food twice a day, noon and evening. He will take plenty of water with his meals, but nothing else.

OLIVE SCULLY SOBS AS THE TALE OF TRAGEDY IS TOLD

Woman Starts Forward as Police Testifies to Alleged Confession, but Is Restrained by Attorney.

District Attorney Everett J. Brown announced yesterday afternoon that he and Assistant District Attorney Hynes would be able to close the prosecution's case against Olive Scully not later than Monday afternoon. He stated that four witnesses were yet to be called, only two of whom would be material or would take any considerable time. One of these, H. W. Enefer, has been subpoenaed from Fresno, where he is now employed, and will reach the city in time to testify on Monday morning.

WOMAN WEEPS.

Olive Scully, from her corner near the witness stand, sobbed intermittently during the entire afternoon yesterday. As one witness after another told the dramatic details of the tragedy of August 11th, Miss Scully covered her face with her hands and wept quietly. When Police Captain Lynch testified that she had said, "Yes, I threw the acid in his face and am glad of it," Miss Scully started and seemed about to remonstrate, but at a motion from Attorney Creely she sank back in her chair. But when the clothing and effects of James Glover were introduced to various witnesses she was visibly affected.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS.

A large crowd assembled in the courtroom for the afternoon session, especially after 4 o'clock, when the aisles and every available space were jammed by the curious spectators. At times the bailiff was forced to rap for order, owing to the shuffling of feet and general restlessness of the throng. Judge Ellsworth finally restored quiet by a statement that police-makers would be brought before the bar and arraigned for contempt.

It is not yet definitely known whether or not Miss Scully will take the stand in her own behalf. The defense is playing a strategic game, and in many points has succeeded in mystifying the audience as to its true motives in certain questioning. Much of the testimony which seems irrelevant and immaterial to the layman, is closely examined and gone over by Walsh, Allen and Creely for the defense.

WATCH CLOSELY.

On the other side of the table Brown and Hynes relentlessly watch every move of their opponents, anticipating the questions and filing strenuous objection whenever they see a chance of being sustained by the court. So far the controversy has been almost entirely devoid of animosity or personal bitterness, but the lawyers are at high tension and their apparent good humor may give way before the conclusion of the trial.

Clerk of Court Louis Rudolph is much worried about the bottle of acid which has been placed in his hands for safe-keeping. He eyes it suspiciously over and anon, possibly fearing that it will "go off," or that he may, in a moment of mental aberration, be tempted to take is anywhere else that men congregate. The office force of the league has become indignant. It believes that it has been subjected to an imposition worse than the Oakland violation of the bounty on rats. A committee of supervision has been organized on the distribution of buttons and if an enthusiast now desires one at headquarters he must submit credentials of good faith and a certificate of residence.

LANGDOM IN CLOSE CORNER

NON-PARTISAN TICKET.

The managers of the so-called non-partisan ticket honestly believe that Taylor will be elected Mayor. Leaving out of consideration their unbecome estimates of support and all the other claptrap of boasting that is warranted neither by conditions nor prospects. Phelan and Spreckels are convinced that Taylor will win. They are extremely fearful, however, of the success of Langdom. The selfishness of the campaign being made by the District Attorney is becoming more apparent every day.

LANGDOM'S STAND.

His evident purpose to seek his own election and to permit everybody else to take care of himself is creating widespread comment and great uneasiness in the councils of the graft prosecution. The spectacle of a District Attorney speaking from Republican and Democratic platforms and endorsing neither Republican nor Democrat for Mayor is raising an ugly sentiment that is not very far removed from disgust.

The discussion of this phase of the affair is widespread, more particularly as Langdom is neither plausible nor logical in his speeches. The practical politicians agree that McGowan has thus far much the better of the argument on the stump and they are fearful that he will recognize the evident tendency of the campaign and confine himself to an effort to elect himself instead of seeking to drag the entire ticket with him to success. If he were to do this the election of Langdom would drop instantly into the area of political uncertainties.

The graft prosecution has been quick to see the danger of this situation and its major energies are now being devoted to the canvass of the District Attorney. In its calculations it is seeking to estimate the effect of a scandalous article which recently appeared in McClure's Magazine. There is not the slightest question that Langdom, justly or unjustly, is being held to account for the offensive assertions which were made in that magazine article. As a consequence he must face the determined opposition of two influential class votes at this election.

Added to this disadvantage is his impossible political attitude. He is Democrat, Republican, Good Government League, Independence League, Laborite—anything and nothing in a political sense. As a political chameleon he is undoubtedly suffering and the graft prosecution has a genuine fear that he may be beaten at the polls. Yet it is not clear how he is to improve his policy of campaign. He cannot support Ryan at the expense of Taylor, for that would be political suicide.

WOMAN HEARS THIEF IN HOUSE

Thinks Burglar Is Roomer and Makes No Investigation Until Too Late.

Mrs. A. Keefe, 7 Telegraph avenue, has reported to the police that shortly after noon yesterday a burglar entered her home and stole a purse containing $13. Mrs. Keefe heard footsteps in the parlor but supposed that one of her roomers had come in and made no attempt to investigate at the time.

IN A BAD BOX.

L. J. Smith, of San Pablo avenue, reports that his gold watch was stolen from the ferry crowd at Oakland pier.

A set of single harness and a new buggy, with yellow gear and tan leather finish, were stolen from Joseph Lavigne, of the State House on San Pablo road yesterday.

Phelan and Spreckels, they say, would not permit such an act of heresy. He cannot endorse Taylor, for that would favor too strongly of political ingratitude.

The predicament is not a pleasant one. Langdom is expected to do what everybody else is commended to do—to declare openly and honestly his choice of the proper men to guide the municipality for the next two years.

He cannot in any consistency do so without losing votes. He is pretending to represent an issue that is above partisanship and is appealing solely to every shade of partisanship to support him. This unusual difficulty is giving the graft prosecution many an uncomfortable hour.

Prof. McAfee Tells of Work in Home Missions

BERKELEY, Oct. 18.—Professor Joseph Ernest McAfee delivered an address on "The Presbyterian Home Missions" in the first Presbyterian Church Wednesday evening. PLEADS LOVE- ON TROLLEY

Engineer Takes Fiancee East on Moment's Notice to be Married.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—Pleading his cause in a street car as he rode to the ferry to board an overland train for the East, G. W. Wepfer, a well known civil engineer, conquered with his eloquence and was accompanied eastward by Miss Lillian Bell Mosebach, daughter of H. H. Mosebach, a capitalist of 2720 Army street. This was on Wednesday of last week. Word came to the parents of the young lady yesterday that she and Wepfer were to be married in New York this morning. On their journey eastward the two were accompanied by a sister of the civil engineer.

When Wepfer started for the ferry on the day in question, to go East with his sister, Miss Flora Wepfer, neither his sweetheart nor any of the friends who went along to give the Wepfers a farewell on the train expected the romantic event that the day was to bring.

BECAME SERIOUS.
Wepfer and Miss Mosebach were betrothed, but the date for their marriage had not been set. Mrs. Mosebach had set her heart upon a brilliant wedding for her daughter, and the daughter had not demurred.

During the street car ride to the ferry Miss Mosebach exclaimed to her fiance: "Oh, how I wish I were going with you and Flora!"
A brilliant idea—came right along," replied Wepfer.
Neither had spoken seriously, but the more they talked it over the more insistent the civil engineer became and the less resistance did he encounter. When the party had crossed the bay and was awaiting the departure of the overland train, Miss Mosebach remained with the Wepfers on the rear platform. The conductor shouted "All aboard!" and the train started.

GOING TO EUROPE.
Miss Flora Wepfer took the young woman in charge and generously shared the contents of her wardrobe with the bride elect until the party reached Chicago, where they stopped for two days while a trousseau was purchased.
They were due to arrive in New York this morning and the wedding will take place at once. Mr. and Mrs. Wepfer and Miss Wepfer will leave for a tour of Europe, expecting to return to San Francisco in about four months.
Wepfer is well known as a civil engineer of high skill. Of late he has been designing bridges for the Southern Pacific. He had much to do with the planning of the armored cruiser California, built at the Union Iron Works. His father was a famous engineer in South Africa. Mrs. Wepfer is a charming lady of 21 years and exceedingly popular.

EXTRA FIREMEN SEEK MORE PAY

Pendleton Opposes Increase,
Stating City Has No Money to Give.

An ordinance introduced by Councilman Burns providing for an increase of $10 a month in the salaries of extra-men and foremen in the fire department was referred to the City Council without recommendation after a lengthy discussion by the members of the finance committee last night.

In behalf of the firemen Foreman McGrath of number six engine made a strong plea for the advance in salary. He pointed out that the fire districts have grown rapidly in the past few years, and the number of calls has been greatly increased. Inasmuch as each extra-man in the department is usually "docked" by his outside employers for the time he spends in attending fires, he contends that it is only just that their remuneration should be increased to cover their enlarged duties and the loss of time from their employment which they suffer as a result. He declared further that the salaries of extra-men and foremen are at present less than those paid by the San Francisco fire department for the same positions, whereas the amount of work intailed in that city is less than here.

OPPOSES INCREASE.

Chairman Pendleton objected to granting the increase on the ground that every dollar of the general fund of the city has already been appropriated for the coming year, and that there is no money in sight to cover the proposed expenditure.
Councilman Burns said that he favored the increase asked, and protested that the money would be forthcoming somewhere. He pointed out that the same objection had been made to other increases in past years, but that the money had always been secured when necessary.

"Yes," responded Pendleton, "but last year the city carried over a deficit of more than $70,000, and we don't wish that to occur this year. There is no money in the city treasury to cover this increase, and I don't see how we can grant it."

PLEADS FOR MEN.

Foreman McGrath said that a number of expenditures already authorized would not be made during the coming year. He cited as an instance the appropriation for several new engines, which he declared could not possibly be ready for delivery before next year.

"Why can't some of the money appropriated for this purpose be devoted to increasing the pay of the firemen?" he asked.

Pendleton held that this would be irregular, and renewed his former objection, but on a vote the ordinance was passed to the Council.
The salaries of extra-men are at present $20 per month and those of foremen $40. The new ordinance provides for an increase to $40 and $50, per month respectively.

CHURCH FAIR DRAWS CROWD

Women of Rosary Booth Will Entertain With Musical Program Tonight.

The attendance at St. Mary's Church fair is still large every evening. Throngs of generous-hearted people are pouring in the moment that the doors are thrown open, and everyone leaves with some souvenir, small or large, to help the good work along. Last evening was "at home day" for Sacred Heart booth, and Mrs. T. P. Hogan, in charge, arranged a clever program of amusement and saw all visitors had a pleasant time. The feature of the evening was the arrest of Assessor Dalton, who was captured just as he emerged from the fortune telling booth and his future political destiny had been foretold to him.

This evening the women of the Rosary booth will entertain their friends and a very imposing musical program has been arranged. A great feature of the fair is the refreshment booth which is being conducted by the members of Company N of the League of the Cross Cadets. Everything on the menu is dainty and served in first-class style. The cadets in attendance at this booth appear in their smart uniforms and certainly give a color and tone to their headquarters with their gold lace and brass buttons.

The young soldiers who are in attendance each evening are: Captain H. J. Leonard, Lieutenants J. V. Fitzsimons and J. L. Flynn, Sergeants George L. Courtney, B. J. Frazzaker, J. N. Gallagher, A. Sylvia, C. Herkenham, Corporals A. J. Provost, P. Lloyd, S. C. Scanlon, and Privates Doling, Ahern, Callaghan, Carey, Cronin, Clancy, Dempsey, Flannery, Griffin, Greene, Johnson, Kearney, Kehoe, Leonard, Lloyd, Martin, Murphy, Mitchell, Moore, McManus, Nicholas, Reynolds, Rose, Smith, Larkey, Pierotti, Petracelli, Brady, Hoenish, Brearty, Phillips, Cullen, and Lenane.

The women of the refreshment booth who are working hard to please everyone who calls are: Mrs. H. J. Leonard, Miss Adine Withers, Miss Mamie Deary, Miss Marie Deary, Miss L. Deary, Miss Julia English, Miss Mae Phillips, Mrs. Francis Smith, Miss Annette Young, Miss Mayd Hicks, Mrs. P. H. Nicholas, Mrs. J. P. Callaghan, Miss Maggie Sullivan, Misses Murphy, Miss Von Pazak, Miss Peterson, Miss M. McGeehan, and Miss Webster.

Although every day hundreds of handsome presents are arriving, sent by interested friends, this morning Father Dempsey received a magnificent statue of St. Joseph, which will be raffled off during the fair. The fair will be open two weeks, but there is no time like the present for dropping down to St. Mary's hall and contributing the smallest mite to help the good work of the parish along.

LAWYER'S WIFE STILL MISSING

Hartridge Holds to Opinion That Woman is in Some Sanitarium.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—After being missing sixteen days, during which an assiduous search for her has been kept up, the whereabouts of Mrs. Clifford W. Hartridge, wife of the lawyer, are as much unknown to her husband, her mother and her other relatives as ever. Hartridge and Mrs. Leslie W. Russell, Mrs. Hartridge's mother, have no idea where the missing woman is, but they have come to the conclusion, Hartridge says, that she is either in some sanitarium or in Europe.

Hartridge inclines to the idea that she is in a sanitarium, because the letter she sent to her mother just before her disappearance indicated that she was un- strung.

A Home By the Great Parks and Boulevards

Imagine a home actually fronting on the beautiful Piedmont Park—that Garden of Delight—and yet only 8 minutes from 14th St. and Broadway by car line and 35 minutes from San Francisco by Key Route. You have never yet found such an opportunity.

Grand Avenue Heights

BY-THE-PARKS

Offers a very limited number of chances of this kind. There is, however, more frontage on Grand Avenue Boulevard and lots on higher ground in the same tract, about five minutes walk from the new city parks.

Have you seen the long trains of cars unloading earth in the city parks at the head of Lake Merritt? Have you watched the rapid progress of the work on the boulevards there? If you have seen these things it is plain to you that Grand Avenue Heights—By-the-Parks—will be the center of all Oakland's highest class residence district.

The great storm sewer is now being laid in Grand Avenue Boulevard, which will then be macadamized and sidewalked. All streets will be macadamized, sewered and cement sidewalks, curbs and gutters put in. Lots secured now at the very low starting-off prices will certainly increase greatly in value in the near future. Make reservations today.

PHILADELPHIA WANTS BOUT BETWEEN MESMIC AND LEWIS

West Oakland Club Has Good Card—Sam Langford Wants Match—Britt and McFarland May Meet.

By EDDIE SMITH.

The "gilt" champion with two names, George Mesmic and Jimmy Burns, is still in demand as a pugilistic attraction. Since Mesmic fought the twenty-round contest with Joe Gans the club has been after him and the fighters of his weight are just as anxious for a chance at his scalp.

Just as Tommy Burns was leaving Oakland he received a telegram from Philadelphia asking that he match Mesmic with Harry Lewis. Tommy immediately advised L. C. Keating of the Columbia Theater, who is managing the affairs of the Western fighter while the champion is abroad, to match his protégé if agreeable terms could be made.

Keating yesterday telegraphed Jack McGuigan, the manager of the club at Philadelphia, that he would match Mesmic with Lewis at 133 pounds at 6 o'clock. Lewis is really a light weight-weight and it is very doubtful if he can make any such weight, although he has been fighting lightweights all over the country.

Lewis has had little experience in the long distance contests, but in the six-round bouts such as they have in the Eastern cities he is regarded one of the best in the business. He has beaten such men as Willie Fitzgerald in two rounds, Mike Ward and Jack Dougherty. He has also boxed Joe Gans and Joe Thomas six-round no-decision contests and has won both of the bouts. On form Lewis has a slight edge over Mesmic, but since coming to California the Mesmic has shown a great improvement and a contest between him and Lewis would be a good one.

Keating announced last night that he had not yet received an answer from Philadelphia and for that reason took it for granted that Lewis would not agree to the weight terms.

The West Oakland club has signed a list of events for their next boxing night that will be replete with fast slugging and excitement should run high. The main event has every prospect of being a classy affair as both principals are in a class that borders closely on the professional ranks.

Frankie Edwards and Bubbles Robinson are to be the contestants, and as Edwards is about to make a trip East he will be called upon to do his very best. Robinson has been fighting around Los Angeles, his last match being with Kid Webster, which fell through on account of McCarney making what the Robinson boy thought unreasonable demands.

The special events will be supplied by George Leahy vs. Jimmy Ryan, and Young Turner vs. Lee Johnson. All four of the contestants have appeared at the West Oakland club in the past and each has proven satisfactory to the patrons of the west end club.

Frankie Smith vs. Young Casey, Kid Scotty vs. Joe Lacey, and Eddie Young vs. Young Sharkey make up the card.

Manager Simpson, while talking of the contests yesterday, said: "I think they are the best lot of contests that I have yet signed for the club, and feel sure that each contest will be so evenly matched that it will be hard work picking the winners."

★—★

Sam Langford, the colored middleweight, is anxious to break into the local game, and through A. J. Bernstein he issues a challenge to either Joe Thomas or Young Ketchel.

Thomas has always been against boxing colored men and he will no doubt refuse to take the tough Eastern man on Ketchel, however, has no feelings regarding the color line and believes that a colored man is easier to beat than a white man.

When Langford's name is passed up to him he may have a change of mind, for there are many in the middleweight class who are willing to meet him.

Sam has been boxing heavyweights for some time and is having a hard time to even get on with them. Langford has a clean-cut decision over Joe Gans, and has also beaten Young Peter Jackson three times.

When in England not long ago cleaning up on the fighters there, Gunner Mott, the lad who is to meet Tommy Burns, refused to have anything to do with Langford.

Bernstein says that he is willing to post $1000 as a forfeit to go as a side bet, if desired, for a match with any fighter in the world at 150 pounds.

There is some talk of a Britt-McFarland contest at Colma on Thanksgiving Day. Jimmy McFarland is after the match and says that he will give the fighters fifty per cent of the admission money.

Britt's very bad showing with Gans has not as yet been forgotten, and although Jimmy has in the past always shown that he was a plumb to the core, there are ever so many who cannot be convinced that the ex-plumber boy did not stoop to Gamble when he was in or a little thing.

Britt has been working on the road with a manager that would indicate that he has the fighting bug in his blood and he may accept the offer.

McFarland is after the match and has not yet decided whether he will agree to take either Britt or Nelson on for anything that the other men will agree to.

Britt may feel that he is entitled to more money, but it is the writer's opinion that Jimmy should feel lucky in getting a chance with such a good boy so soon after his bad showing with the colored champion.

Joe Cabral Will Manage Edwards

Frankie Edwards, the clever featherweight, has placed himself under the management of Joe Cabral and it is the intention of the two to leave for the East for the winter boxing season in Philadelphia and New York.

Cabral has had considerable experience in the boxing line and seems to know the game thoroughly well. He has at different times been with some of the best managers that the coast has developed and for a time acted as manager for Louie Long when that fighter was the toughest man in California at the lightweight limit.

Edwards is the cleverest of the short distance men on the coast and should be able to do well in the East, as the contests are all short distance and just to his liking. Cabral will try to match Edwards with some of the best fighters of the East, and if the fighter is successful in his contest at West Oakland and Vallejo the pair will immediately hot-act for the East.

$100 IN GOLD IF YOU MUSTLE DURING THE NEXT TWO WEEKS

EASY MONEY FOR SOME CONTESTANT Gold Looks Good to Most People--How About You?

AN EXTRA PRIZE OF $100 IN GOLD WILL BE AWARDED TO THE CANDIDATE WHO, WITH THE AID OF FRIENDS, BRINGS IN THE LARGEST AMOUNT OF PAID-UP ADVANCE SUBSCRIPTIONS FROM FRIDAY, OCTOBER 18, TO SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2, ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS PAID IN ADVANCE DURING THIS PERIOD, WHETHER BY CANDIDATES, THEIR FRIENDS, WHO WERE CREDITED IN FAVOR OF A CANDIDATE AS REQUESTED.

THE VOTES ISSUED ON THESE SUBSCRIPTIONS CAN BE VOTED AT ANY TIME, OR HELD AND VOTED ON THE LAST NIGHT OF THE CONTEST IF DESIRED.

AT NO TIME DURING THE CONTEST WILL ANY MORE DOUBLE VOTES BE ISSUED OR WILL ANY SPECIAL VOTE OFFER BE MADE. THIS IS AN EXCELLENT CHANCE TO GET $100 IN EASY MONEY.

THE OFFER OF AN EXTRA CASH PRIZE OF $100 IN GOLD has awakened great interest among the candidates in THE TRIBUNE'S great $10,000 prize contest.

THE EXTRA PRIZE OF $100 IN GOLD is in addition to all other prizes, and does not relate in any way to the number of votes received or credited to any candidate.

THE $100 will be awarded to the candidate to whom is credited the largest amount of money on paid-up advance subscriptions from Friday, October 18, to Saturday, November 2, who will receive this $100 prize, and why not you?

CANDIDATES HUSTLING. From the way the different candidates are putting in their time and bending every energy and effort in securing subscriptions to THE TRIBUNE, it is an evident fact that they intend winning.

EVERYONE realizes that a great deal of extra work will have to be done in the few remaining weeks of the contest.

IT IS best now to wake up to the fact that if your intentions are to win that you must have to get out to work and hard work at that, for those who are competing with you are working hard to get the most votes.

WILLIAM GIMBLE. William Gimble still maintains the lead in the contest, and his class in the contest for the $100 lot. Gimble has many friends of the right sort, as is shown by the fact that he is polling the largest vote of any class.

COUPONS IN PACKAGES. The vote coupons must be tied in packages or placed in envelopes. It is impossible to count thousands of coupons dropped loosely in the box.

MANNER OF VOTING. A coupon good for one vote will be published in each issue of THE TRIBUNE, and the only way to get this coupon is by clipping and sending it to the Contest Manager of THE TRIBUNE, who will count as one vote for the candidate named on the coupon.

TO LIMIT SALOONS AND FIX THE HIGH LICENSE DISTRICT

Council Committee Refuses Permit to Sell Liquor Near Schoolhouse and Oppo- site Children's Playground.

By an ordinance introduced at the meeting of the Ordinance and Judiciary Committee of the City Council last night, it is proposed to establish a higher license district in the down town districts than in other sections of the city. The high license district as set forth in the ordinance will be bounded by Brush, Twenty-second and Harrison streets and the water front. Within this district the saloon license will be fixed at $400 per year, while in all outlying districts the license will be but $400.

The new ordinance further amends the old ordinance regulating the liquor traffic by limiting the number of saloons in the city to the number in existence when the ordinance goes into effect. If the council adopts the amendments this will fix the limit at about 250.

RESTAURANT LICENSES.
In fixing the liquor licenses for restaurant special stress is laid on the definition of the word "restaurant." For restaurants without a bar, where hot meals are served in a dining room, the ordinance fixes the liquor license at $400 per annum. Restaurants having a bar in connection will be assessed $700. The license for family liquor stores is fixed at $400, while drug stores are taxed 750 quarterly for the privilege of handling spirituous liquors. The ordinance specifically provides that the mere serving of crackers and cheese and cold lunches will not bring an establishment under the category of restaurants.

DURING "GOOD BEHAVIOR."
Another feature of the amending ordinance will hold their licenses during "good behavior," without being obliged to apply each year for a renewal. All protests against saloons will be filed with the license committee of the City Council, and offending saloonmen will be brought before that body to answer the complaints against them. But as long as there is no criticism of the conduct of a place the proprietor will be allowed to hold his license.

President Elliot of the City Council who originated the amendment placing a limit on the number of saloons in the city, addressed the committee in support of the new ordinance. He said:

"I was formerly opposed to limiting the number of saloons because it tends to create a monopoly of the saloon business and to increase artificially the value of saloon property. But on the other hand, there is always so much political pressure brought to bear on councilmen to grant new licenses in congested districts that it is almost impossible to keep them within proper bounds. I have investigated conditions in other cities where the number of saloons is limited, and I have found that a discipline can be maintained over saloonkeepers which usually resulted in an orderly conduct of their establishments. I am sure that there are hundreds of men eager to take their places if they are deprived of their licenses, and in consequence they are careful to observe the law."

FAVORS LIMIT.
"As a result of my investigations I am in favor of the ordinance placing a limit on the number of saloons in Oakland. I also favor the amendment in regard to the holding of licenses after they are granted during good behavior. This measure will place the management of the license committee on a business-like basis, and will do away with the unnecessary waste of time in considering applications for protests. Where there is no protest against a saloon, the proprietor may consider his license perpetuated as long as he pays for it."

The ordinance was referred to the next meeting of the council with the recommendation that it be referred again to the committee of the whole.

PROTEST GRANTED.
A protest bearing the signatures of seventy-one residents in the vicinity of 2212 Perilla avenue, where M. C. George and H. R. Martin made application for a saloon license, was received by the license committee of the City Council last night, and the application denied. This action was based upon the fact that the proposed saloon would be only 400 feet from school grounds and directly across the street from the proposed playgrounds.

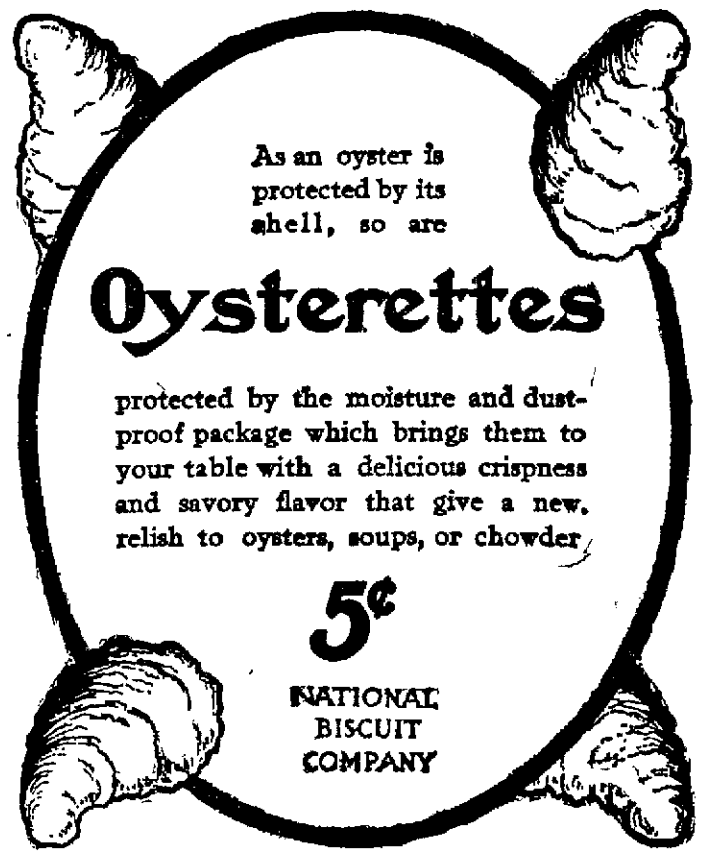

The application of G. A. Houston and L. V. Furell, who wished to conduct a saloon in connection with the West Oakland skating rink, was also denied, a protest from residents of the vicinity having been received.

R. J. Nixon and S. P. Schullman withdrew their application for a saloon at 1222 Broadway. The matter of granting a license to Martin O'Connell, 1719 Broadway, was laid over for two weeks, pending investigation because of a protest filed.

The applications of Steve and Nick Spaulding and of Paul and Marie Malare, 488 San Pablo avenue and 821 Broadway, respectively, were denied.

RECOMMEND LICENSES.
The following old applications for liquor licenses were recommended to be granted: Becker & Koles, 1700 Seventh street, saloon; C. W. Barrett & Co., 371 Eleventh street, saloon; James Cruise, 635 Jackson street, saloon; J. A. Ciochack and estate of Marcorich, 645 Thirteenth street, restaurant; C. H.
